OVER 300 DEAD IN GERMAN BLAST

Anti-Poll Tax Bill Is Due Today; Filibuster Planned

Peace Hopes Fade After Being Raised By Compromise Plan

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—Congress tonight plunged into a civil rights battle certain to postpone, if not wipe out, any lingering chance of action on cost-of-living and other major legislation at the special session.

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, acting Republican leader, announced he will bring up tomorrow an anti-poll tax bill—one of the key items in President Truman's party-splitting civil rights program.

And southern Democrats declared they would debate the measure right down to the ground. One of them, Sen. Hoey (D-NC) said flatly there was going to be a filibuster.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP policy committee, said the southerners probably would "debate" the poll tax bill all day tomorrow and Friday, with the daily sessions winding up about 5 p. m. (EST).

Taft said he didn't know what the Republicans would do if the Dixie forces still hold the floor next week. He conceded that it would be "very difficult" to beat a filibuster with 21 senators taking part in it.

Peace Hopes Fade

Recalling President Truman's statement that the Republicans can pass an anti-poll tax bill if they want to, Taft told reporters: "We'll exhaust every parliamentary effort to do it."

Peace hopes, raised briefly when a compromise poll tax proposal was made in the Senate, faded just 24 hours after President Truman told the lawmakers he had called them back to cope with inflation, the housing shortage and 17 other problems.

While Congress argued, the Justice Department set up three new anti-trust units and expanded eight others. One purpose: To prosecute any groups found getting together to raise food, clothing and housing prices.

"The continuing high prices, and the growth of private economic power, compel an anti-trust survey throughout the country," Attorney General Tom Clark said.

New offices were set up in Philadelphia, Kansas City and Jacksonville, Fla. Offices will be enlarged in New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

GOP leaders in Congress, talking of adjournment within two or three weeks, said no to most of the President's anti-inflation and other recommendations at the outset. A filibuster could prevent any Senate action at all.

Hayden Offers Peace Plan

(The House could complete action on, among other things, the Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill, already passed by the Senate. Mr. Truman asked it to do so yesterday. But GOP leaders said no action was likely.)

A civil rights peace plan was put forward by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz). He said: Why not try a constitutional amendment to outlaw the poll tax requirement for voting in federal elections, since the southern Democrats are so strongly opposed to doing it by act of Congress?

Fine, said the Dixie lawmakers. One of them, Sen. Russell (D-Ga), got together with Hayden and Wherry. But apparently nothing came of the meeting. When it broke up, Wherry said he would call

Republicans Answer Fire Of President

Taft, Halleck Charge Lack Of Co-operation

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—GOP congressional leaders returned President Truman's fire tonight, castigating his call of a special session as unecessary and declaring that his anti-inflation proposals would make high prices permanent.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) led a parade of indignant legislators to the microphone to answer Mr. Truman's address to Congress yesterday — and his frequent earlier denunciations of the GOP-dominated 80th Congress.

Taft, chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, said in a prepared speech that "we would be fully justified in adjourning at once."

Taft said it is difficult and dangerous to work out great public problems without the slightest cooperation from "a hostile President."

The only way these problems can be solved, he said, is by vote of the people at the November election.

"We have determined therefore that this session should be limited to a short period of perhaps two weeks," he said.

"Police State Methods"

During this period, the Senator said, Congress will try to work out some method of controlling prices without resorting to what he called President Truman's "police state methods."

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, acting majority leader, said that even though the special session was called as a "political maneuver," Congress is "ready and willing to pass constructive legislation."

"Any legislation found to be of an emergency character will have our favorable consideration and will be sent to the White House where I hope the legislation will be shown like consideration," he said.

Wherry sharply criticized the President, calling him "Candidate" Truman throughout his speech.

Taft declared:

"This Congress has learned that when powers are once granted to a left-wing administrator they are freely used. x x x Once you start to fix prices you have to regulate

EXPLOSION-SHATTERED PLANT-- Rescue workers make their way through the explosion-shattered I. G. 6,200 Injured As Huge Farben Chemical Plant Reduced To Wreckage

Industrialist Slain In Auto By Gun Blast

Trio Escapes After Killing Chicagoan

CHICAGO July 28 (AP)—A wealthy industrialist was killed today by three gunmen who pulled alongside his car in rush hour traffic and fired a shotgun blast which blew off the top of his head.

The gunmen's car raced away after the shooting on busy Pershing Road on Chicago's South Side. Killed was Nathan Gumbin, 56, owner of the General Fiber Company. Gumbin was riding with his son, Owen, 19, who was not touched.

The son told police that the gunmen's car pulled up alongside his father's Cadillac and someone fired into Gumbin's face.

Owen said he and his father were returning from a meeting at the plant.

Motive Is Sought

Police said the meeting concerned labor problems there. They added that no apparent motive for the slaying had been uncovered as yet.

A maid in Gumbin's swanky South Side home said the family had been preparing to celebrate Gumbin's birthday anniversary tonight.

A Chicago policeman was driving in front of Gumbin's car at the time. The officer, James Weber, said the killers were waiting for Gumbin. They swung their parked car out from the curbing as the industrialist drove past.

The assassins then thrust a shotgun through the side window and fired as Gumbin's car slowed for a red light. Weber said the gunmen immediately roared away before he could give chase. He added, however, that he jotted down their license number.

License Plates Stolen

A number of other witnesses said they thought the blast was an engine backfiring or a tire blowout at first.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Andrew Aitken and Coroner A. L. Brodie said Gumbin and his son were returning from a labor meeting at the plant. They added, however, that their investigation disclosed that there had not been any labor trouble at the plant which makes cardboard boxes.

German Police Say 500 To 800 Killed; Gls Join Rescuers

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Germany, Thursday, July 29. (AP)—New blasts ripped the wrecked I. G. Farben Chemical Company here early today in the wake of yesterday's explosion which killed more than 300 and injured 6,200, according to a United States Army estimate. German police said between 500 and 800 were killed.

The Army said there were 300 known dead, presumably from a count of bodies during rescue operations, and that an undetermined number of dead still remain in the blazing wreckage.

A United States Army statement said 2,700 persons were treated for injuries suffered in the plant when the first blast occurred yesterday. At least 3,500 others were injured by falling walls and flying glass and debris outside the plant, the Army said.

Hospitals reported that between 30 and 40 injured persons had died since the initial blast.

Because new explosions boomed through the night and flames raged through the wreckage, it was impossible for rescue squads to approach some sections of the factory in a search for bodies. Other estimates of casualties ranged up to 1,000 dead.

1,000 Doctors, Nurses On Hand

Six hundred American troops were on the scene, laying hose and working in the glare of the flames and searchlights. It was estimated that 1,000 doctors and nurses were giving aid to the burned and injured. They came from all sections of Western Germany.

American, French and German rescue workers braved the minor blasts, flames and fumes early today, 10 hours after the first explosion, as they continued bringing survivors out of the inferno.

Frankfurt sent 10 ambulances to Ludwigshafen early today and Heidelberg dispatched 30. As hospitals near Ludwigshafen became filled and could take no more patients, the injured were taken to dozens of cities and towns farther away.

Eventually ambulance loads of wounded were being rushed to Kaiserlauten and Karlsruhe, 60 miles from Ludwigshafen. American forces set up field hospitals in the immediate vicinity.

The blast and resultant fire, which sent flames and smoke towering miles into the air, came just 15 minutes before the workers would have gone home for the day. The plant employs 22,000 workers.

Clocks for miles around were stopped by the concussion at 3:45 p. m. (8:45 a. m., Eastern Standard Time).

Americans Give Aid

The disaster, probably the greatest in Europe since the end of the war, was described by Lord Mayor Valentin Hauer as worse than the explosion in a Farben plant in suburban Oppau in 1921 which took 565 lives. The last serious explosion in the Ludwigshafen plant occurred July 29, 1943, when 73 were killed.

Although the explosion occurred in the French occupation zone, Americans played a major role in fire fighting and rescue work. American military police, aided by United States soldiers from the Mann-

At Least 16 Men Presumed Dead In Crash Of B-29

One Rescued; Five Bodies Recovered

ADEN, July 28 (AP)—One of three B-29 Superfortresses on an around-the-world flight crashed in the sea within sight of this port on the south coast of Arabia last night. At least 16 American crewmen were believed lost.

One man was rescued but it was not learned immediately the exact number of men aboard the giant American bomber. Authorities here imposed restrictions on outgoing dispatches concerning the crash.

Five bodies were recovered from the sea during the day and were buried with full military honors in a funeral attended by the crews of the two remaining B-29s.

The crash occurred at 7 p. m. local time (11 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, Tuesday) shortly after the three planes took off for Ceylon.

Cause Still Unknown

Cause of the disaster still is unknown. Eyewitnesses said the plane was airborne when the motors suddenly became silent.

The other planes returned to Aden and are awaiting instructions.

United States Consul Charles Gidney and the consulate staff were present during rescue operations all through last night. Divers are working on the wreckage which is visible about a mile offshore at low tide.

The three planes carried a total of 53 men, according to an announcement when they left Tucson, Ariz., on the flight. The customary complement of a B-29 is nine men but two of the globe-girdling planes carried double crews while the third carried 17 men.

The lone survivor, identified only as Sgt. Gustafason, was picked up by local fishermen. He was reported resting comfortably in the RAF hospital.

Two West Virginians Aboard

The three big bombers left Tucson six days ago on the first around-the-world attempt for B-29s. The Air Force called it a "routine long distance training" flight.

Western Allies Reported Ready To Give "Peace" Plan To Russia

British Official Says Talks On All-Europe Basis To Be Sought

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—A responsible British official said today Britain, France and the United States are ready to present to Russia their conditions for new talks "on a general European settlement" of East-West quarrels.

(This report that proposed discussions on German problems might be broadened to an all-European basis was not commented upon by State Department officials in Washington. Secretary of State Marshall said for his part of the British-French-American agreement on next steps in dealing with the Berlin crisis was secret and he hoped the British and French would be equally reticent. He said there already had been too much speculation about what the Western Powers were going to do.)

Molotov To Receive Plan

The formula for unraveling the Berlin tangle will be set before Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov during the next few days by British and American diplomats hurrying back to Moscow and by the French ambassador who is already there.

The British informant said the idea in the minds of the Western Powers is to broaden a projected four-power discussion of all German problems to embrace outstanding European differences between East and West.

His statement apepared to fit in with what one American diplomat said yesterday: "This is not a Berlin crisis; this is a European crisis."

A Foreign Office spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny that the Western Powers contemplate discussions on a European settlement as a whole.

Basic Condition Unchanged

The British official who said the West was prepared for general European talks emphasized the basic conditions insisted upon by the United States, Britain and France remain the same:

1. Russia must recognize that the Western Powers will not quit Berlin and will not negotiate concerning problems of that city or on broader problems while under Soviet pressure.

2. Russia must lift her food and fuel blockade of Berlin.

Earlier, a British official had forecast that the Western Powers will put in "cold storage" their plans to set up a West German government if Russia agrees to these conditions and thereby opens the way for consideration of all German questions. His statement was backed by a Foreign Office spokesman.

Murder Injected Into Cominform, Yugoslavia Row

Belgrade Official Held In Budapest

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 28 (AP)—Murder was injected into the Yugoslav-Cominform quarrel today.

The Yugoslav Information Office charged that the secretary of the Yugoslav legation in Budapest, Zhovka Boarov, had been arrested by the Hungarian government in connection with the murder of Milos Moic. The Hungarian government was accused of openly violating Boarov's diplomatic immunity and of deliberately using the murder to embitter Yugoslav-Hungarian realtions. Yugoslavia has filed an official protest over the arrest, it was announced.

Cheers For Marshal Tito

Meanwhile, the final step of defiance of the Cominform was taken in the Yugoslav Communist Congress when it adopted unanimously and with cheers for Marshal Tito a resolution declaring the Cominform charges "untrue, unfair and unjust."

The resolution declared the party had not abandoned Marxist-Leninist teachings, that "everything possible should be done to liquidate the dispute" and the Cominform encouraged to see that its accusations were baseless.

The Central Committee was broadened from 28 to 63, and an alphabetical list of candidates, including all the old members, was adopted unanimously.

Marshal Tito, whom the Cominform wants thrown out, presumably will be re-elected leader of the party.

(Budapest dispatches said Hungarian government authorities refused to admit that Boarov had been arrested. A member of the Yugoslav legation would say only that Boarov was no longer at the legation building.

Pravda Accuses Legation

(Pravda, Communist Party newspaper in Moscow, charged the Yugoslav legation in Budapest of harboring the "assassin of Milos Moic" and declared the slaying was part of "low terrorist plans of international reactionaries."

("It is well known that imperialist inspirers of these terrorist attempts on the leaders of Democratic and Communist movements are not sparing of money for the recruitment of agents as paid assassins," Pravda added.

(Observers in Moscow said the incident appeared to have made the rift between Yugoslavia and her sisters in the Communist Information Bureau even wider.)

CIO Council Backs Univis Strikers

DAYTON, O., July 28 (AP)—The Montgomery County CIO Industrial Union Council — threatening a county-wide labor holiday against "police brutality"—threw its support tonight behind strikers at Univis Lens Company.

The council ordered a mass picket line of leaders and available workers from the second and third work shifts of various Dayton industrial plants.

Representatives from 32 county CIO locals, representing 30,000 union members, attended the council meeting.

The council also called a mass meeting at the Univis plant for 6:30 a. m. Friday, said Secretary-Treasurer William Snoots, "to bring the issues to the people and explain them."

Council action followed a violent skirmish between police and pickets earlier today. Police won the battle, the third in three days with a CIO union over the reopening of the lens company's strike-bound plant. Five pickets were injured.

Witnesses said heavily reinforced squads of police swung clubs and cracked heads in again forcing a path through a picket line at the entrance to the plant.

Some 340 non-striking employes scurried through the corridor in a back-to-work movement that started Monday.

New Charleston Arrival Weighs Over 15 Pounds

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28—(AP)—A 15-pound, 12-ounce boy, the largest baby ever to be born in this area according to the attending physician, was delivered at St. Francis Hospital to a 43-year-old mother of eight other children.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. David McGraw, of Kanawha Two-Mile. They said that this was the first of their children to be born in a hospital. McGraw is a miner.

"Boycott" Effective

CHICAGO, July 28. (AP)—A 21-cent slash in the price of beef steak—from $1.19 to 98 cents a pound—was announced today by the A. & P. Food stores.

Price resistance on the part of housewives was responsible for the cut, officials of the food chain said.

Trio Will Probe U.N.-Spy Charge

WASHINGTON, July 28. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today launched an inquiry to find out whether Communist agents or other aliens dangerous to American security are entering the United States through the United Nations.

Marshall named three private citizens to recommend measures to plug loopholes if any are found.

The three are B. M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star; James H. Rowe, Jr., a former assistant attorney general, who is a member of the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government; and Marcellus C. Sheild, for 28 years clerk of the House Appropriations Committee before retiring in 1944.

Marshall asked them to say whether existing American and United Nations basic laws and regulations are adequate to keep out individuals dangerous to United States security. They will not be concerned with the activities of specific individuals.

Marshall acted after a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee heard charges and denials that several hundred foreign agents were using the United Nations as a front for subversive activities in this country.

At Lake Success, Arkady A. Sobolev, acting secretary general, said the United Nations has nothing to hide and "welcomes any public discussion of the matter."

UMW Sued As Result Of Shooting At Mine

PINEVILLE, Ky., July 28. (AP)—Two damage suits totaling $70,000 were filed in Bell Circuit Court today against the United Mine Workers of America and several officials and members of that union.

Damages were sought as a result of a volley of shots fired near the Ferndale mine of Charlie Janeway, during which he was wounded and Raleigh Peace was killed.

The shooting occurred on the morning of July 29, 1947.

Mrs. Peace, widow of the slain man, sued for $25,000 for the death of her husband and $25,000 punitive damages.

Janeway, father-in-law of peace, sued for $5,000 for personal injuries, $5,000 for damages to his property and business and $10,000 punitive damages.

Wage Offer Rejected

CAMDEN N. J. July 28. (AP)—The Bethlehem Steel Company's seven-cent across-the-board increase offer to its 28,000 workers in nine East Coast plants was rejected today. The union seeks a 13-cent an hour boost.

Armored Car Strikes Tree, Killing Soldier

FORT MEADE, Md., July 28 (AP)—A young mechanized cavalryman was killed here today when an armored car he was learning to drive crashed into a tree.

The post public relations office identified him as T-5 Donald Plummer, 19, son of Mrs. Cecelia Plummer, Sidman, Pa. He had been in the service 14 months.

The public relations office said a reserve officer training corps student was at the wheel of the vehicle when it crashed into a hollow pine tree on the driving range near the post hospital area.

Labor Act Section Upheld By Judge

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 28 (AP)—In a decision of major importance in this election year, a federal judge today upheld the Taft-Hartley Act ban on political spending by labor unions.

Refusing to dismiss indictments against an AFL union local and its president, Judge Carroll C. Hincks, of the United States District Court here, asserted:

"In the light of the legislative history of the act, in silhouette against the contemporary background, I hold, first, that the act was well within the limits of federal legislative power and, second, that it was not invalidated by its incidental effect in restraint upon the freedoms protected by the First Amendment."

The union, Local 481, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of Hartford, and its president, John R. O'Brien, had sought dismissal of the indictments on the grounds that the challenged section of the Taft-Hartley law violated the guarantees of free speech and a free press in the First Amendment.

Price Of Lucky Strike Cigarets Is Increased

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—The American Tobacco Company today raised the price of Lucky Strike cigarets seven-tenths of a cent a package, the first increase on any of its major brands in nearly two years.

The company said the increase of 5½ per cent will make its new price $7.78 a thousand, less customary discounts—a boost of 35 cents. It added that similar increases would be made on its other principal brands.

Other tobacco companies have not said whether they will follow suit.

Truman, Dewey To Speak At New York Air Show

NEW YORK, July 28. (AP)—President Truman will make a 10-minute radio speech Saturday at a giant air show officially opening New York's international airport.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Mr. Truman's rival for the presidency, will speak for seven minutes, Grover Whalen, chairman of the city's Golden Anniversary Committee, announced today.

It will be the first time Mr. Truman and Gov. Dewey have met since the St. Patrick's Day parade here last March. The two presidential candidates will sit near each other at the Idlewild, Queens, airport reviewing stand.

Kerr Wins In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28. (AP)—Robert S. Kerr's majority for the Democratic nomination as United States Senator from Oklahoma topped 44,000 today with all but 13 of the state's 3,695 precincts reported.

Kerr, wealthy oil man and former Governor, won the race against Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney.

President Steering Clear Of Jackson County Battle

KANSAS CITY, July 28 (AP) — President Harry S. Truman's old political club—1908 Main Street — and a young war veteran are playing "showdown" in Tuesday's primary election for county Democratic control here.

On the other is an overseas paratrooper and intelligence officer of World War II, 36-year-old Harry A. Morris, the present Jackson County Democratic chairman and a youngster as politics go.

The President, who once called upon and saw his friend, Jim, deliver in the purging of Roger C. Slaughter as a candidate for renomination as a congressman here, is sitting this one out.

The fact is the President has friends on both sides—friends who either have been White House guests or have standing invitations. One of these is his long-time friend, Mayor Roger C. Sermon. Sermon is supporting young Morris.

Jim Pendergast and Morris have played "showdown" before but this one appears to be for keeps. Before, Morris beat Pendergast by rallying strength behind a non-partisan ticket in the last city election here.

This time they are battling for control of the important county committee—a group over which the Pendergast organization from its politically famous address of 1908 Main Street has dominated for a quarter of a century.

Morris is waging a blistering campaign on "boss politics." He has aligned with him as his most ardent workers a group of war veterans who as Democrats have been associated with the non-partisan movement at the City Hall.

Miss Adkins Commended By GOP County Chairmen

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — The Maryland Republican Party got the state presidential campaign off to a start today at an organizational meeting here.

Most of the 2½-hour session was taken up, however, with a discussion of the recent election of Miss Bertha S. Adkins, Salisbury, as Republican national committeewoman from Maryland.

At the end of the discussion, GOP county chairmen unanimously passed a vote-of-confidence resolution in her behalf.

Her selection had been criticized by many women of the party.

State Chairman Stanford Hoff announced this Republican campaign committee for the coming election:

Jacob France, GOP national committeeman, and Miss Adkins, representing the national committee; Hoff, Henry Stockbridge, 3rd, and Leland Rockwell, representing the State Central Committee; Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the Finance Committee.

William Coyle, of Montgomery County, chairman of the Young Republicans Committee; Theodore R. McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore, chairman of the Speakers Committee, and Blanchard Randall, Jr., Baltimore, chairman of the Research Committee.

Hoff said all six candidates for the House of Representatives also would be on the campaign committee and that he had asked State Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) to be chairman of the committee's labor sub-group.

Miss Adkins made her first public statement at today's gathering about the controversy that has surrounded her election.

France produced a letter signed by John L. Morris, clerk of the Wicomico County Board of Election Supervisors, stating that she had

Peace Hopes Fade After Being Raised By Compromise Plan

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—Congress tonight plunged into a civil rights battle certain to postpone, if not wipe out, any lingering chance of action on cost-of-living and other major legislation at the special session.

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, acting Republican leader, announced he will bring up tomorrow an anti-poll tax bill—one of the key items in President Truman's party-splitting civil rights program.

And southern Democrats declared they would debate the measure right down to the ground. One of them, Sen. Hoey (D-NC) said flatly there was going to be a filibuster.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP policy committee, said the southerners probably would "debate" the poll tax bill all day tomorrow and Friday, with the daily sessions winding up about 5 p. m. (EST).

Taft said he didn't know what the Republicans would do if the Dixie forces still hold the floor next week. He conceded that it would be "very difficult" to beat a filibuster with 21 senators taking part in it.

Peace Hopes Fade

Recalling President Truman's statement that the Republicans can pass an anti-poll tax bill if they want to, Taft told reporters: "We'll exhaust every parliamentary effort to do it."

Peace hopes, raised briefly when a compromise poll tax proposal was made in the Senate, faded just 24 hours after President Truman told the lawmakers he had called them back to cope with inflation, the housing shortage and 17 other problems.

While Congress argued, the Justice Department set up three new anti-trust units and expanded eight others. One purpose: To prosecute any groups found getting together to raise food, clothing and housing prices.

"The continuing high prices, and the growth of private economic power, compel an anti-trust survey throughout the country," Attorney General Tom Clark said.

New offices were set up in Philadelphia, Kansas City and Jacksonville, Fla. Offices will be enlarged in New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

GOP leaders in Congress, talking of adjournment within two or three weeks, said no to most of the President's anti-inflation and other recommendations at the outset. A filibuster could prevent any Senate action at all.

Hayden Offers Peace Plan

(The House could complete action on, among other things, the Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill, already passed by the Senate. Mr. Truman asked it to do so yesterday. But GOP leaders said no action was likely.)

A civil rights peace plan was put forward by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz). He said: Why not try a constitutional amendment to outlaw the poll tax requirement for voting in federal elections, since the southern Democrats are so strongly opposed to doing it by act of Congress?

Fine, said the Dixie lawmakers. One of them, Sen. Russell (D-Ga), got together with Hayden and Wherry. But apparently nothing came of the meeting. When it broke up, Wherry said he would call

Republicans Answer Fire Of President

Taft, Halleck Charge Lack Of Co-operation

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—GOP congressional leaders returned President Truman's fire tonight, castigating his call of a special session as unecessary and declaring that his anti-inflation proposals would make high prices permanent.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) led a parade of indignant legislators to the microphone to answer Mr. Truman's address to Congress yesterday — and his frequent earlier denunciations of the GOP-dominated 80th Congress.

Taft, chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, said in a prepared speech that "we would be fully justified in adjourning at once."

Taft said it is difficult and dangerous to work out great public problems without the slightest cooperation from "a hostile President."

The only way these problems can be solved, he said, is by vote of the people at the November election.

"We have determined therefore that this session should be limited to a short period of perhaps two weeks," he said.

"Police State Methods"

During this period, the Senator said, Congress will try to work out some method of controlling prices without resorting to what he called President Truman's "police state methods."

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, acting majority leader, said that even though the special session was called as a "political maneuver," Congress is "ready and willing to pass constructive legislation."

"Any legislation found to be of an emergency character will have our favorable consideration and will be sent to the White House where I hope the legislation will be shown like consideration," he said.

Wherry sharply criticized the President, calling him "Candidate" Truman throughout his speech.

Trio Will Probe U.N.-Spy Charge

WASHINGTON, July 28. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today launched an inquiry to find out whether Communist agents or other aliens dangerous to American security are entering the United States through the United Nations.

Marshall named three private citizens to recommend measures to plug loopholes if any are found.

The three are B. M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star; James H. Rowe, Jr., a former assistant attorney general, who is a member of the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government; and Marcellus C. Sheild, for 28 years clerk of the House Appropriations Committee before retiring in 1944.

Marshall asked them to say whether existing American and United Nations basic laws and regulations are adequate to keep out individuals dangerous to United States security. They will not be concerned with the activities of specific individuals.

Marshall acted after a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee heard charges and denials that several hundred foreign agents were using the United Nations as a front for subversive activities in this country.

At Lake Success, Arkady A. Sobolev, acting secretary general, said the United Nations has nothing to hide and "welcomes any public discussion of the matter."

At Least 16 Men Presumed Dead In Crash Of B-29

One Rescued; Five Bodies Recovered

ADEN, July 28 (AP)—One of three B-29 Superfortresses on an around-the-world flight crashed in the sea within sight of this port on the south coast of Arabia last night. At least 16 American crewmen were believed lost.

One man was rescued but it was not learned immediately the exact number of men aboard the giant American bomber. Authorities here imposed restrictions on outgoing dispatches concerning the crash.

Five bodies were recovered from the sea during the day and were buried with full military honors in a funeral attended by the crews of the two remaining B-29s.

The crash occurred at 7 p. m. local time (11 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, Tuesday) shortly after the three planes took off for Ceylon.

Cause Still Unknown

Cause of the disaster still is unknown. Eyewitnesses said the plane was airborne when the motors suddenly became silent.

The other planes returned to Aden and are awaiting instructions.

United States Consul Charles Gidney and the consulate staff were present during rescue operations all through last night. Divers are working on the wreckage which is visible about a mile offshore at low tide.

The three planes carried a total of 53 men, according to an announcement when they left Tucson, Ariz., on the flight. The customary complement of a B-29 is nine men but two of the globe-girdling planes carried double crews while the third carried 17 men.

The lone survivor, identified only as Sgt. Gustafason, was picked up by local fishermen. He was reported resting comfortably in the RAF hospital.

Two West Virginians Aboard

The three big bombers left Tucson six days ago on the first around-the-world attempt for B-29s. The Air Force called it a "routine long distance training" flight.

UMW Sued As Result Of Shooting At Mine

PINEVILLE, Ky., July 28. (AP)—Two damage suits totaling $70,000 were filed in Bell Circuit Court today against the United Mine Workers of America and several officials and members of that union.

Damages were sought as a result of a volley of shots fired near the Ferndale mine of Charlie Janeway, during which he was wounded and Raleigh Peace was killed.

The shooting occurred on the morning of July 29, 1947.

Mrs. Peace, widow of the slain man, sued for $25,000 for the death of her husband and $25,000 punitive damages.

Janeway, father-in-law of peace, sued for $5,000 for personal injuries, $5,000 for damages to his property and business and $10,000 punitive damages.

Wage Offer Rejected

CAMDEN N. J. July 28. (AP)—The Bethlehem Steel Company's seven-cent across-the-board increase offer to its 28,000 workers in nine East Coast plants was rejected today. The union seeks a 13-cent an hour boost.

Western Allies Reported Ready To Give "Peace" Plan To Russia

New Charleston Arrival Weighs Over 15 Pounds

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28—(AP)—A 15-pound, 12-ounce boy, the largest baby ever to be born in this area according to the attending physician, was delivered at St. Francis Hospital to a 43-year-old mother of eight other children.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. David McGraw, of Kanawha Two-Mile. They said that this was the first of their children to be born in a hospital. McGraw is a miner.

British Official Says Talks On All-Europe Basis To Be Sought

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—A responsible British official said today Britain, France and the United States are ready to present to Russia their conditions for new talks "on a general European settlement" of East-West quarrels.

(This report that proposed discussions on German problems might be broadened to an all-European basis was not commented upon by State Department officials in Washington. Secretary of State Marshall said for his part of the British-French-American agreement on next steps in dealing with the Berlin crisis was secret and he hoped the British and French would be equally reticent. He said there already had been too much speculation about what the Western Powers were going to do.)

Molotov To Receive Plan

The formula for unraveling the Berlin tangle will be set before Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov during the next few days by British and American diplomats hurrying back to Moscow and by the French ambassador who is already there.

The British informant said the idea in the minds of the Western Powers is to broaden a projected four-power discussion of all German problems to embrace outstanding European differences between East and West.

His statement apepared to fit in with what one American diplomat said yesterday: "This is not a Berlin crisis; this is a European crisis."

A Foreign Office spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny that the Western Powers contemplate discussions on a European settlement as a whole.

Basic Condition Unchanged

The British official who said the West was prepared for general European talks emphasized the basic conditions insisted upon by the United States, Britain and France remain the same:

1. Russia must recognize that the Western Powers will not quit Berlin and will not negotiate concerning problems of that city or on broader problems while under Soviet pressure.

2. Russia must lift her food and fuel blockade of Berlin.

Earlier, a British official had forecast that the Western Powers will put in "cold storage" their plans to set up a West German government if Russia agrees to these conditions and thereby opens the way for consideration of all German questions. His statement was backed by a Foreign Office spokesman.

CIO Council Backs Univis Strikers

DAYTON, O., July 28 (AP)—The Montgomery County CIO Industrial Union Council — threatening a county-wide labor holiday against "police brutality"—threw its support tonight behind strikers at Univis Lens Company.

The council ordered a mass picket line of leaders and available workers from the second and third work shifts of various Dayton industrial plants.

Representatives from 32 county CIO locals, representing 30,000 union members, attended the council meeting.

The council also called a mass meeting at the Univis plant for 6:30 a. m. Friday, said Secretary-Treasurer William Snoots, "to bring the issues to the people and explain them."

Council action followed a violent skirmish between police and pickets earlier today. Police won the battle, the third in three days with a CIO union over the reopening of the lens company's strike-bound plant. Five pickets were injured.

Witnesses said heavily reinforced squads of police swung clubs and cracked heads in again forcing a path through a picket line at the entrance to the plant.

Some 340 non-striking employes scurried through the corridor in a back-to-work movement that started Monday.

"Boycott" Effective

CHICAGO, July 28. (AP)—A 21-cent slash in the price of beef steak —from $1.19 to 98 cents a pound —was announced today by the A. & P. Food stores.

Price resistance on the part of housewives was responsible for the cut, officials of the food chain said.

Murder Injected Into Cominform, Yugoslavia Row

Belgrade Official Held In Budapest

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 28 (AP)—Murder was injected into the Yugoslav-Cominform quarrel today.

The Yugoslav Information Office charged that the secretary of the Yugoslav legation in Budapest, Zhovka Boarov, had been arrested by the Hungarian government in connection with the murder of Milos Moic. The Hungarian government was accused of openly violating Boarov's diplomatic immunity and of deliberately using the murder to embitter Yugoslav-Hungarian realtions. Yugoslavia has filed an official protest over the arrest, it was announced.

Cheers For Marshal Tito

Meanwhile, the final step of defiance of the Cominform was taken in the Yugoslav Communist Congress when it adopted unanimously and with cheers for Marshal Tito a resolution declaring the Cominform charges "untrue, unfair and unjust."

The resolution declared the party had not abandoned Marxist-Leninist teachings, that "everything possible should be done to liquidate the dispute" and the Cominform encouraged to see that its accusations were baseless.

The Central Committee was broadened from 28 to 63, and an alphabetical list of candidates, including all the old members, was adopted unanimously.

Marshal Tito, whom the Cominform wants thrown out, presumably will be re-elected leader of the party.

(Budapest dispatches said Hungarian government authorities refused to admit that Boarov had been arrested. A member of the Yugoslav legation would say only that Boarov was no longer at the legation building.

Pravda Accuses Legation

(Pravda, Communist Party newspaper in Moscow, charged the Yugoslav legation in Budapest of harboring the "assassin of Milos Moic" and declared the slaying was part of "low terrorist plans of international reactionaries."

("It is well known that imperialist inspirers of these terrorist attempts on the leaders of Democratic and Communist movements are not sparing of money for the recruitment of agents as paid assassins," Pravda added.

(Observers in Moscow said the incident appeared to have made the rift between Yugoslavia and her sisters in the Communist Information Bureau even wider.)

NEW YORK, July 28. (AP)—President Truman will make a 10-minute radio speech Saturday at a giant air show officially opening New York's international airport.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Mr. Truman's rival for the presidency, will speak for seven minutes, Grover Whalen, chairman of the city's Golden Anniversary Committee, announced today.

It will be the first time Mr. Truman and Gov. Dewey have met since the St. Patrick's Day parade here last March. The two presidential candidates will sit near each other at the Idlewild, Queens, airport reviewing stand.

Industrialist Slain In Auto By Gun Blast

Trio Escapes After Killing Chicagoan

CHICAGO July 28 (AP)—A wealthy industrialist was killed today by three gunmen who pulled alongside his car in rush hour traffic and fired a shotgun blast which blew off the top of his head.

The gunmen's car raced away after the shooting on busy Pershing Road on Chicago's South Side. Killed was Nathan Gumbin, 56, owner of the General Fiber Company. Gumbin was riding with his son, Owen, 19, who was not touched.

The son told police that the gunmen's car pulled up alongside his father's Cadillac and someone fired into Gumbin's face.

Owen said he and his father were returning from a meeting at the plant.

Motive Is Sought

Police said the meeting concerned labor problems there. They added that no apparent motive for the slaying had been uncovered as yet.

A maid in Gumbin's swanky South Side home said the family had been preparing to celebrate Gumbin's birthday anniversary tonight.

A Chicago policeman was driving in front of Gumbin's car at the time. The officer, James Weber, said the killers were waiting for Gumbin. They swung their parked car out from the curbing as the industrialist drove past.

The assassins then thrust a shotgun through the side window and fired as Gumbin's car slowed for a red light. Weber said the gunmen immediately roared away before he could give chase. He added, however, that he jotted down their license number.

License Plates Stolen

A number of other witnesses said they thought the blast was an engine backfiring or a tire blowout at first.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Andrew Aitken and Coroner A. L. Brodie said Gumbin and his son were returning from a labor meeting at the plant. They added, however, that their investigation disclosed that there had not been any labor trouble at the plant which makes cardboard boxes.

German Police Say 500 To 800 Killed; Gls Join Rescuers

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Germany, Thursday, July 29. (AP)—New blasts ripped the wrecked I. G. Farben Chemical Company here early today in the wake of yesterday's explosion which killed more than 300 and injured 6,200, according to a United States Army estimate. German police said between 500 and 800 were killed.

The Army said there were 300 known dead, presumably from a count of bodies during rescue operations, and that an undetermined number of dead still remain in the blazing wreckage.

A United States Army statement said 2,700 persons were treated for injuries suffered in the plant when the first blast occurred yesterday. At least 3,500 others were injured by falling walls and flying glass and debris outside the plant, the Army said.

Hospitals reported that between 30 and 40 injured persons had died since the initial blast.

Because new explosions boomed through the night and flames raged through the wreckage, it was impossible for rescue squads to approach some sections of the factory in a search for bodies. Other estimates of casualties ranged up to 1,000 dead.

The entire area was evacuated late last night of all except firemen and rescue workers.

1,000 Doctors, Nurses On Hand

Six hundred American troops were on the scene, laying hose and working in the glare of the flames and searchlights. It was estimated that 1,000 doctors and nurses were giving aid to the burned and injured. They came from all sections of Western Germany.

American, French and German rescue workers braved the minor blasts, flames and fumes early today, 10 hours after the first explosion, as they continued bringing survivors out of the inferno.

Frankfurt sent 10 ambulances to Ludwigshafen early today and Heidelberg dispatched 30. As hospitals near Ludwigshafen became filled and could take no more patients, the injured were taken to dozens of cities and towns farther away.

Eventually ambulance loads of wounded were being rushed to Kaiserlauten and Karlsruhe, 60 miles from Ludwigshafen. American forces set up field hospitals in the immediate vicinity.

The blast and resultant fire, which sent flames and smoke towering miles into the air, came just 15 minutes before the workers would have gone home for the day. The plant employs 22,000 workers.

Clocks for miles around were stopped by the concussion at 3:45 p. m. (8:45 a. m., Eastern Standard Time).

Americans Give Aid

The disaster, probably the greatest in Europe since the end of the war, was described by Lord Mayor Valentin Hauer as worse than the explosion in a Farben plant in suburban Oppau in 1921 which took 565 lives. The last serious explosion in the Ludwigshafen plant occurred July 29, 1943, when 73 were killed.

Although the explosion occurred in the French occupation zone, Americans played a major role in fire fighting and rescue work. American military police, aided by United States soldiers from the Mann-

Labor Act Section Upheld By Judge

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 28 (AP)—In a decision of major importance in this election year, a federal judge today upheld the Taft-Hartley Act ban on political spending by labor unions.

Refusing to dismiss indictments against an AFL union local and its president, Judge Carroll C. Hincks, of the United States District Court here, asserted:

"In the light of the legislative history of the act, in silhouette against the contemporary background, I hold, first, that the act was well within the limits of federal legislative power and, second, that it was not invalidated by its incidental effect in restraint upon the freedoms protected by the First Amendment."

The union, Local 481, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of Hartford, and its president, John R. O'Brien, had sought dismissal of the indictments on the grounds that the challenged section of the Taft-Hartley law violated the guarantees of free speech and a free press in the First Amendment.

Price Of Lucky Strike Cigarets Is Increased

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—The American Tobacco Company today raised the price of Lucky Strike cigarets seven-tenths of a cent a package, the first increase on any of its major brands in nearly two years.

The company said the increase of 5½ per cent will make its new price $7.78 a thousand, less customary discounts—a boost of 35 cents. It added that similar increases would be made on its other principal brands.

Other tobacco companies have not said whether they will follow suit.

President Steering Clear Of Jackson County Battle

KANSAS CITY, July 28 (AP) — President Harry S. Truman's old political club—1908 Main Street — and a young war veteran are playing "showdown" in Tuesday's primary election for county Democratic control here.

On the other is an overseas paratrooper and intelligence officer of World War II, 36-year-old Harry A. Morris, the present Jackson County Democratic chairman and a youngster as politics go.

The President, who once called upon and saw his friend, Jim, deliver in the purging of Roger C. Slaughter as a candidate for renomination as a congressman here, is sitting this one out.

The fact is the President has friends on both sides—friends who either have been White House guests or have standing invitations. One of these is his long-time friend, Mayor Roger C. Sermon. Sermon is supporting young Morris.

Jim Pendergast and Morris have played "showdown" before but this one appears to be for keeps. Before, Morris beat Pendergast by rallying strength behind a non-partisan ticket in the last city election here.

This time they are battling for control of the important county committee—a group over which the Pendergast organization from its politically famous address of 1908 Main Street has dominated for a quarter of a century.

Morris is waging a blistering campaign on "boss politics." He has aligned with him as his most ardent workers a group of war veterans who as Democrats have been associated with the non-partisan movement at the City Hall.

Miss Adkins Commended By GOP County Chairmen

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — The Maryland Republican Party got the state presidential campaign off to a start today at an organizational meeting here.

Most of the 2½-hour session was taken up, however, with a discussion of the recent election of Miss Bertha S. Adkins, Salisbury, as Republican national committeewoman from Maryland.

At the end of the discussion, GOP county chairmen unanimously passed a vote-of-confidence resolution in her behalf.

Her selection had been criticized by many women of the party.

State Chairman Stanford Hoff announced this Republican campaign committee for the coming election:

Jacob France, GOP national committeeman, and Miss Adkins, representing the national committee; Hoff, Henry Stockbridge, 3rd, and Leland Rockwell, representing the State Central Committee; Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the Finance Committee.

William Coyle, of Montgomery County, chairman of the Young Republicans Committee; Theodore R. McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore, chairman of the Speakers Committee, and Blanchard Randall, Jr., Baltimore, chairman of the Research Committee.

Hoff said all six candidates for the House of Representatives also would be on the campaign committee and that he had asked State Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) to be chairman of the committee's labor sub-group.

Miss Adkins made her first public statement at today's gathering about the controversy that has surrounded her election.

Pirates Blamed For Plane Crash

MACAO, July 28 (AP)—Bungling, trigger-happy Chinese pirates were blamed today for the July 16 crash of a huge flying boat which cost 25 lives, including those of seven Americans.

Police Commissioner Luis A. M. Palletti told a press conference he is "definitely sure" pirates among the passengers tried to seize the Cathay Pacific liner after it took off for Hong Kong.

Palletti refused to go into detail but the Macao Daily News published a dramatic account of piracy in the air and sudden death.

The news said its story came from police sources, who had at last obtained from the lone survivor the story of what took place before the crash. Wong Yu, the survivor, suffered broken legs.

Here is the news story, which Palletti refused to confirm or deny:

Four Chinese pirates, one a pilot capable of taking over the controls, boarded the plane as passengers at this Portuguese colony. They intended to kidnap the rich Chinese passengers for ransom.

The plane took off and at only 500 feet one pirate went forward and pressed a pistol at the back of United States Pilot Dale Cramer. He ordered Cramer to let the pirate pilot take over.

In the passenger section the other pirates produced pistols. A European passenger grappled with one of them. The pirate covering Cramer turned to see what the noise was about.

Cramer, seeing him off guard, felled him with a heavy wrench. A third pirate opened up when he saw his comrade fall and excitedly fired at the only man who could save everyone from disaster—the pilot.

Several bullets struck Cramer in the back. He slumped over the controls. The flying boat then began a curving dive toward the sea with its cargo of screaming, panic-mad passengers.

Man Who 'Dive-Bombed' U.N. Formally Charged

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 28 (AP)—The ex-GI turret gunner who "dive-bombed" United Nations headquarters was formally charged today with illegally possessing explosives.

Stephen J. Supina—who said he dropped a one-pound dynamite stick from a rented plane to "wake up" United Nations to the need for peace—was held at Nassau County police headquarters for arraignment tomorrow.

Supina was brought from New Haven, Conn., where he surrendered last Friday. He has maintained he is anxious to return to Lake Success to "finish my fight for world peace."

In a turbulent city where thousands jammed in front of banks attempting to exchange old marks for new Soviet-sponsored money, Mayor Frau Louise Schroeder defied a Russian order to dismiss the anti-Communist deputy police chief.

Backed by the three western commandants, the fighting Socialist mayor, known as the "mother" of Berlin, told the Russians that Berlin was under four-power rule—she couldn't obey a one-power command.

The struggle over control of the police pointed up the relentless Soviet drive to capture control of the blockaded city, regardless of prospects for new four-power talks or Berlin or all of Germany.

up the bill for debate as GOP senators agreed earlier in the day.

The anti-poll tax bill already has passed the House. Its sponsor, Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), sent letters to all GOP senators today asking them to support it. He said: "It is the only way the Republican Party can keep faith with the American people on this issue."

During today's Senate debate, Russell said the South has no objection to a constitutional amendment which would wipe out the poll tax. What southerners do object to, he said, is Congress making rules for state and local elections.

every detail of every sale and transaction."

"The President's quarrel with the 80th Congress," Taft said, "is not its failure to enact legislation, but a fundamental difference in government philosophy between the President and Congress.

"The President would fix wages, fix prices, expand government spending, increase federal taxes, socialize and nationalize medicine, and generally regiment the life of every family, as well as agriculture, labor and industry and his proposals would ultimately create an annual budget which could not be less than $60,000,000,000.

"Such expenditure would make inflation inevitable and permanent."

Halleck, House majority leader, said the 80th Congress had generated a building boom through the removal of red tape and restrictions. When a Republican president is elected they will do better, the Congressman declared.

"At the time this Republican Congress was elected in 1946 President Truman publicly stated that the people had spoken, that he accepted their verdict, and that he would co-operate with the Republican Congress. That pledge he has not kept.

"Mr. Truman vetoed measure after measure only to see his vetoes overridden by overwhelming majorities in the Congress."

Of the President's call for "emergency" legislation, Halleck said: "The American people and this Congress are willing to work and sacrifice for any real emergency. But a political emergency is an entirely different thing."

Average Marylander Paid $11.57 Sales Tax

BALTIMORE July 28 (AP)—It cost the average Marylander $11.57 to pay the state retail sales tax during the first 11 months after the levy went into effect July 1, 1947.

Figures released by State Comptroller James J. Lacy show the tax accounted for $23,692,016 in that time. In addition, $56,773 was extracted from merchants who had to buy a $1 license authorizing them to collect the tax.

Baltimoreans, who have based their pleas for greater representation in the State Legislature on the premise that they pay more than half the state's taxes, found support to this argument in Lacy's report.

They coughed up 59.67 per cent of the total revenue from the sales tax. This means the average Baltimorean was tapped for $15.15.

Governor Refuses To Stay Execution

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 28 (AP) — Jasper Nease, 24-year-old Letcher County man and former soldier, sat in "Death Row" today and awaited his execution early Friday morning in the state's electric chair here.

Virtually his last hope for a stay of execution faded today when Gov. Earle Clements declined at Frankfort to interfere in the case. Nease and two soldier companions were convicted at Louisville of armed robbery in connection with the robbery-slaying of Vernon Hodge.

Members of Nease's family asked the Governor to postpone the execution date 30 days so Nease's wife and twin babies could come from Belgium to tell him goodbye.

Gov. Clements at first said, "That seems a reasonable request." But he said later an investigation showed the babies to be dead and no indication their mother planned to come to Kentucky.

Nease, Daniel T. McPeak, 22, Dublin, Va., and Herbert Workman, 19, Telsa, W. Va., were convicted and sentenced to death for the robbery of Hodge several months ago. Execution dates for McPeak and Workman have not been set.

Whisky Made To Sell, Not Drink, Ex-"Champion Bootlegger" Says

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28. (AP)—"Whisky wasn't made to drink, it was made to sell," the self-styled "champion king bootlegger of Kanawha County" said today in announcing his retirement.

The man, who identified himself to reporters as Frank Riggin, 46-year-old Charleston negro, told the Charleston Gazette he was "mighty tired" after 20 years of bootlegging and was "just going to take it easy."

He said he had made "oodles of money" selling whisky and wine, although court fines cut deeply into his earnings. He left the impression, though, that he would not suffer financially during his retirement.

Riggin said that his efforts to keep thirsty Charlestonians supplied with their favorite alcoholic beverages had been interrupted by law enforcement agencies on several occasions since he set up business in 1928.

He explained that he had spent more than four years behind the bars for liquor violations, including a two-year sentence at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Riggin said that back in 1934 one distillery bottled two special brands of whisky for exclusive sale in Charleston by him and known as "Riggin's Special" and "Riggin's Pride."

Asked if it was good whisky, he replied, "I don't know, I'm not a whisky drinker."

Salisbury Times Editor Hits Crime News "Gag"

SALISBURY, Md., July 28 (AP)—Oscar Morris, managing editor of the Salisbury Times, said today the state's newspapers cannot keep faith with their public if court rules now in effect in Baltimore are applied to crime news throughout the state.

Morris entered the Times' objections in a letter to Chief Judge Levin Claude Bailey, of the state's First Judicial Circuit.

Judge Bailey had invited the comment because he is chairman of a committee of judges which is studying statewide application of the Baltimore rules. It has been proposed that they become "Rule 9" in the Court of Appeals code on practice and procedure.

The Baltimore code prevents the publication of evidence discovered by police and prosecutors in their solutions of crimes.

It also prohibits the publication of any statement which may be made by an accused or comment on his actions after arrest.

Banks Urged To Use Caution In Making Loans

BALTIMORE, July 28. (AP)—J. Millard Tawes, state banking commissioner, urged all Maryland banks and trust companies today to practice caution in any further expansion of credit.

In a letter to the presidents and boards of directors of all the banking institutions, Tawes said the June 30 call-report figures showed loans had reached an all time high of $254,000,000.

This, he said, represented an increase of $10,909,213 in the last six months, and a gain of $24,996,628, or 10.9 per cent, since June 30, 1947.

Tax Receipts Allocated For Road Work Soar

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — The state received nearly $2,000,000 more in tax receipts allocated for road construction than estimated in this year's budget, the office of the State Roads Commission disclosed today.

Carl L. Wannen, comptroller of the commission, said total receipts from the five-cent gasoline tax and the motor vehicle revenue fund for the year ended June 30 were $31,649,640.

Of this amount, $13,851,093 was earmarked for state road construction, $4,193,568 goes for road maintenance, Baltimore City gets $8,162,986, and counties and other subdivisions get $5,441,991.

The gasoline tax accounted for $18,822,818 and the motor vehicle revenue fund for $12,826,822. Of the latter, $4,439,684 represents receipts from the two per cent excise tax on all automobiles titled in Maryland.

heim Ordnance Depot, lay down 39,000 feet of hose and supplied surgeons, ambulances, food and Protestant and Catholic chaplains.

Lt. Gen. Curtis E. LaMay, commander of the United States Air Force in Britain, said all available United States planes were ready to aid. His offer came as planes under his command were flying huge quantities of food and supplies into Berlin to fight the Russian blockade.

The explosion is believed to have occurred in a six-story building known as the "nitrate building."

The plant had been producing industrial chemicals, drugs and dyes. However, unconfirmed reports in recent months said the French also were using it to make high explosive propulsion fluids for experiments with V-1 and V-2 rockets.

Fumes Add To Misery

Strong fumes from burning chemicals sent survivors reeling about the streets like blind men tonight.

Others — even in Mannheim, American zone city across the Rhine—were injured and dazed by falling brick walls and shattered glass.

American soldiers sped across the rickety wooden bridge connecting Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and undertook heroic rescue work. Some wearing gas masks plunged through smoke and fumes to disconnect railway cars containing highly-explosive chemicals and move them out of range of the fire.

Others operated bulldozers and tractors to open paths through wreckage.

An estimate of "thousands" dead was posted in the United States Army information room at Heidelberg, but the Army said the bulletin was "unofficial."

Police on the scene gave their estimate of 500 to 800 dead after being told of the posted bulletin.

The police said 1,000 persons were hospitalized in Ludwigshafen, 300 in Heidelberg and 300 in Mannheim. Others were taken to hospitals in Karlsruhe and Speyer.

As night fell, ambulances continued to carry burned and injured from the plant.

Pirates Blamed For Plane Crash

MACAO, July 28 (AP)—Bungling, trigger-happy Chinese pirates were blamed today for the July 16 crash of a huge flying boat which cost 25 lives, including those of seven Americans.

Police Commissioner Luis A. M. Palletti told a press conference he is "definitely sure" pirates among the passengers tried to seize the Cathay Pacific liner after it took off for Hong Kong.

Palletti refused to go into detail but the Macao Daily News published a dramatic account of piracy in the air and sudden death.

The news said its story came from police sources, who had at last obtained from the lone survivor the story of what took place before the crash. Wong Yu, the survivor, suffered broken legs.

Here is the news story, which Palletti refused to confirm or deny:

Four Chinese pirates, one a pilot capable of taking over the controls, boarded the plane as passengers at this Portuguese colony. They intended to kidnap the rich Chinese passengers for ransom.

The plane took off and at only 500 feet one pirate went forward and pressed a pistol at the back of United States Pilot Dale Cramer. He ordered Cramer to let the pirate pilot take over.

In the passenger section the other pirates produced pistols. A European passenger grappled with one of them. The pirate covering Cramer turned to see what the noise was about.

Cramer, seeing him off guard, felled him with a heavy wrench. A third pirate opened up when he saw his comrade fall and excitedly fired at the only man who could save everyone from disaster—the pilot.

Several bullets struck Cramer in the back. He slumped over the controls. The flying boat then began a curving dive toward the sea with its cargo of screaming, panic-mad passengers.

Man Who 'Dive-Bombed' U.N. Formally Charged

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 28 (AP)—The ex-GI turret gunner who "dive-bombed" United Nations headquarters was formally charged today with illegally possessing explosives.

Stephen J. Supina—who said he dropped a one-pound dynamite stick from a rented plane to "wake up" United Nations to the need for peace—was held at Nassau County police headquarters for arraignment tomorrow.

Supina was brought from New Haven, Conn., where he surrendered last Friday. He has maintained he is anxious to return to Lake Success to "finish my fight for world peace."

old woman took on her frail shoulders tonight the giant East-West struggle for Berlin.

In a turbulent city where thousands jammed in front of banks attempting to exchange old marks for new Soviet-sponsored money, Mayor Frau Louise Schroeder defied a Russian order to dismiss the anti-Communist deputy police chief.

Backed by the three western commandants, the fighting Socialist mayor, known as the "mother" of Berlin, told the Russians that Berlin was under four-power rule—she couldn't obey a one-power command.

The struggle over control of the police pointed up the relentless Soviet drive to capture control of the blockaded city, regardless of prospects for new four-power talks on Berlin or all of Germany.

Anti-Poll Tax

up the bill for debate as GOP senators agreed earlier in the day.

The anti-poll tax bill already has passed the House. Its sponsor, Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), sent letters to all GOP senators today asking them to support it. He said: "It is the only way the Republican Party can keep faith with the American people on this issue."

During today's Senate debate, Russell said the South has no objection to a constitutional amendment which would wipe out the poll tax. What southerners do object to, he said, is Congress making rules for state and local elections.

Republicans

every detail of every sale and transaction."

"The President's quarrel with the 80th Congress," Taft said, "is not its failure to enact legislation, but a fundamental difference in government philosophy between the President and Congress.

"The President would fix wages, fix prices, expand government spending, increase federal taxes, socialize and nationalize medicine, and generally regiment the life of every family, as well as agriculture, labor and industry and his proposals would ultimately create an annual budget which could not be less than $60,000,000,000.

"Such expenditure would make inflation inevitable and permanent."

Halleck, House majority leader, said the 80th Congress had generated a building boom through the removal of red tape and restrictions. When a Republican president is elected they will do better, the Congressman declared.

"At the time this Republican Congress was elected in 1946 President Truman publicly stated that the people had spoken, that he accepted their verdict, and that he would co-operate with the Republican Congress. That pledge he has not kept.

"Mr. Truman vetoed measure after measure only to see his vetoes overridden by overwhelming majorities in the Congress."

Of the President's call for "emergency" legislation, Halleck said: "The American people and this Congress are willing to work and sacrifice for any real emergency. But a political emergency is an entirely different thing."

Average Marylander Paid $11.57 Sales Tax

BALTIMORE July 28 (AP)—It cost the average Marylander $11.57 to pay the state retail sales tax during the first 11 months after the levy went into effect July 1, 1947.

Figures released by State Comptroller James J. Lacy show the tax accounted for $23,692,016 in that time. In addition, $56,773 was extracted from merchants who had to buy a $1 license authorizing them to collect the tax.

Baltimoreans, who have based their pleas for greater representation in the State Legislature on the premise that they pay more than half the state's taxes, found support to this argument in Lacy's report.

They coughed up 59.67 per cent of the total revenue from the sales tax. This means the average Baltimorean was tapped for $15.15.

Governor Refuses To Stay Execution

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 28 (AP) — Jasper Nease, 24-year-old Letcher County man and former soldier, sat in "Death Row" today and awaited his execution early Friday morning in the state's electric chair here.

Virtually his last hope for a stay of execution faded today when Gov. Earle Clements declined at Frankfort to interfere in the case. Nease and two soldier companions were convicted at Louisville of armed robbery in connection with the robbery-slaying of Vernon Hodge.

Members of Nease's family asked the Governor to postpone the execution date 30 days so Nease's wife and twin babies could come from Belgium to tell him goodbye.

Gov. Clements at first said, "That seems a reasonable request." But he said later an investigation showed the babies to be dead and no indication their mother planned to come to Kentucky.

Nease, Daniel T. McPeak, 22, Dublin, Va., and Herbert Workman, 19, Telsa, W. Va., were convicted and sentenced to death for the robbery of Hodge several months ago. Execution dates for McPeak and Workman have not been set.

Whisky Made To Sell, Not Drink, Ex-"Champion Bootlegger" Says

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28. (AP)—"Whisky wasn't made to drink, it was made to sell," the self-styled "champion king bootlegger of Kanawha County" said today in announcing his retirement.

The man, who identified himself to reporters as Frank Riggin, 46-year-old Charleston negro, told the Charleston Gazette he was "mighty tired" after 20 years of bootlegging and was "just going to take it easy."

He said he had made "oodles of money" selling whisky and wine, although court fines cut deeply into his earnings. He left the impression, though, that he would not suffer financially during his retirement.

Riggin said that his efforts to keep thirsty Charlestonians supplied with their favorite alcoholic beverages had been interrupted by law enforcement agencies on several occasions since he set up business in 1928.

He explained that he had spent more than four years behind the bars for liquor violations, including a two-year sentence at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Riggin said that back in 1934 one distillery bottled two special brands of whisky for exclusive sale in Charleston by him and known as "Riggin's Special" and "Riggin's Pride."

Asked if it was good whisky, he replied, "I don't know, I'm not a whisky drinker."

Salisbury Times Editor Hits Crime News "Gag"

SALISBURY, Md., July 28 (AP)—Oscar Morris, managing editor of the Salisbury Times, said today the state's newspapers cannot keep faith with their public if court rules now in effect in Baltimore are applied to crime news throughout the state.

Morris entered the Times' objections in a letter to Chief Judge Levin Claude Bailey, of the state's First Judicial Circuit.

Judge Bailey had invited the comment because he is chairman of a committee of judges which is studying statewide application of the Baltimore rules. It has been proposed that they become "Rule 9" in the Court of Appeals code on practice and procedure.

The Baltimore code prevents the publication of evidence discovered by police and prosecutors in their solutions of crimes.

It also prohibits the publication of any statement which may be made by an accused or comment on his actions after arrest.

Banks Urged To Use Caution In Making Loans

BALTIMORE, July 28. (AP)—J. Millard Tawes, state banking commissioner, urged all Maryland banks and trust companies today to practice caution in any further expansion of credit.

In a letter to the presidents and boards of directors of all the banking institutions, Tawes said the June 30 call-report figures showed loans had reached an all time high of $254,000,000.

This, he said, represented an increase of $10,909,213 in the last six months, and a gain of $24,996,628, or 10.9 per cent, since June 30, 1947.

Intelligent Approach To An Important Problem

Spade work now being done by the executive group of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee provides an unobstructed insight into what is hoped for. The committee is to be commended for its intelligent approach to a problem, the outcome of which could easily be one of the outstanding accomplishments in the city's history.

The prime purpose of the movement it to sell the advantages of Cumberland to outside industrial interests, in the hope of inducing them to locate within our gates. While such an undertaking has been too long delayed, it is heartwarming to find that the newly created organization is showing much promise of moving rapidly ahead in its endeavor.

As a preliminary step, a survey is to be made to bring to focus all the things Cumberland has to offer. This is important in that it will permit presenting in a nutshell the many advantages of the city. This has been done in the past but not on the scale now contemplated.

The decision of the CIPC to ascertain the reason for loss of some industries over the years will also prove of great value. It will aid in setting up a code as a guide to future dealings with industries and in the solicitation of new enterprises.

The plan to make every man, woman and child so well acquainted with our possibilities that they will serve as salespeople and ambassadors of goodwill, constantly on duty spreading that knowledge, is an important step.

Cumberland is sadly in need of new and diversified opportunities for employment of its constantly increasing population. The bringing here of industries in the small business category could easily serve as a barrier against a serious crippling of its economic welfare should recessions affect either one or both of the two major plants it is our good fortune to have. The program now being mapped can go far in achieving that goal to the end that the necessity of carrying all our eggs in one basket, so to speak, could be removed.

Of course, the success of the project will depend upon united, aggressive and vigorous action on the part of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee and everyone interested in the future expansion of the city. Whatever effort is contributed, whether it be large or small, will multiply many times, in economic values, when this ambitious program is realized.

If We Had Twenty Political Parties Instead Of Just Two

Harry Truman's pursuit of minority group support, often at the expense of the mass of the people whom he is supposed to represent, is becoming one of the most disgraceful chapters in American history.

The necessities of a desperate political situation have driven him far off what we believe to have been his natural course. He is obviously willing to sacrifice anything in order to hold together that strange alliance of divergent elements that made Franklin D. Roosevelt's re-elections possible. His Democratic platform, adopted at Philadelphia, was just one long list of promises to one group after another. And his present surge to the left, which promises to carry him further in that direction than any other American President has ever gone, is obviously an effort to take away from the Wallace Party its very reason for existence. Whatever else Truman has accomplished, it seems to us he has pretty nearly reached his goal.

But in other directions his wild-eyed policies carry a considerable threat of ending the two-party system in the United States. If Dewey succumbs to the temptation to compete with him, our old system obviously will not endure. If the two major parties are interested only in the present minority groups, which are numerous enough, it will be only a question of time when the various conservative and moderate elements, which are now being kicked around, and even the great middle class itself, will find a way of becoming vocal and making their votes count on election day.

Then we'll have ten or twenty parties—a situation for which our institutions make no provision whatsoever!

Exercising a reasonable degree of influence, the minority groups are all right. Ruling the country, as they are not far from doing at the present moment, they are apt to bring our magnificent structure of free constitutional government crashing down about our ears.

Cool Heads Needed To Prevent Upheaval In East

While the Berlin crisis continues to be extremely grave, the danger of its exploding into open warfare in the immediate future has been lessened by the decision of the western powers to try every possible diplomatic and peaceful methods of relieving the situation before restoring to drastic moves.

The decision to resort to every peaceful means to avoid an eruption of world-shaking consequences was a wise one. The United States, Britain and France have no intention of leaving Berlin or of giving an inch in the face of Russian pressure. Secretary Marshall has repeated this government's purpose of remaining firm. But there are still many ways in which the Russian squeeze can be countered without going to war. One of them came to light this week when the United States and Britain banned movements of trains to and from the Russian zone of Germany because of "technical difficulties."

The use of force can be extremely tricky. Sending an armored train to Berlin would have been a grand gesture but it would have been a difficult job at best. Even if the Russians decided not to attack it openly, they could, through their control of the railroad and its signals and switches, bring about a wreck, calling the result an accident.

The excellent success of the air-lift in bringing supplies to Berlin gives the western powers a breathing spell. In the next few weeks and months, provided the Russians do nothing seriously to threaten the air supply route, or adopt new methods of forcing the Allies out of Berlin, there will be time to try other means of settling the dispute. The American people would be wise to follow the lead of their Government and keep their heads cool. It will be time enough to succumbs to war hysteria after the last avenue to approach to a settlement has been exhausted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Treatment of Lung Abscess

When an abscess develops beneath the skin, it is a relatively simple matter to treat; the area is anesthetized and an incision made to allow pus to drain. Abscesses deeper in the body are serious because they are more difficult to handle. When they occur in the lungs, the problem may appear hopeless but this is not the case because there are several ways in which the condition can be managed.

Dr. Van Dellen

The first type of treatment is the conservative approach in which one of the wonder drugs—penicillin or streptomycin—is administered hypodermically or via the aerosol route. It is most useful when the abscess has ruptured into one of the bronchial tubes and the purulent material is expectorated by coughing. Drainage is often encouraged by placing the individual in a certain position, depending upon where the lesion is located. For example, lying on the left side is helpful when it is in the right lung and vice versa. If the lower lobe is involved, the secretion escapes more readily by keeping the head lower than the body. The opposite is true if the lesion is in the apex, or uppermost part. Meanwhile, the causative germs are being destroyed by the antibiotics and in due time, healing ensues.

The second methods of treatment are employed if drainage is slow in starting. The lung may be collapsed by pneumothorax or paralyzing the diaphragm. This often hastens recovery because the collapsed lung literally squeezes the puslike fluid out of the diseased cavity. Such procedures are utilized frequently in tuberculosis because they also facilitate healing of the surrounding infection in the lung.

If this therapy does not work, the abscess must be opened surgically in much the same way as similar lesions beneath the skin. If pus has accumulated near a bronchial tube, it can be done from the inside with a bronchoscope. This instrument is a flexible tube with an eyepiece at one end and a light at the other; through a series of lenses it is possible to visualize the inside of the lung. A cutting device is attached and, when the bulging abscess is reached, an opening can be made. This measure is obviously of value only in cases where the exact site of the lesion is known. It is particularly useful if a peanut or other foreign body has been inhaled, acting as the "starter" of the inflammation.

But the most frequently employed maneuver is to make an incision through the chest wall and the lung until the inflamed spot is reached. In order to do this, a segment of one or more ribs must be removed. To keep the wound open until oozing is complete, a tube is inserted; otherwise the skin might close over the surface, defeating the purpose of the operation. The tube also permits the surgeon to wash out the abscessed cavity in order to encourage removal of all the infected material. Antiseptic solutions are utilized for this purpose, especially those containing penicillin or streptomycin.

The decision as to which plan to use depends upon many factors. In general, surgery is not resorted to until more conservative means have been tried, but the tendency nowadays is to operate earlier; if there is no sign of healing after three to six weeks, operation is advised. Statistics show that when this is done, the outcome is much better.

Liver Spots

Mrs. N. writes: What causes pigment in the skin? Some months ago it started across my forehead and is spreading down my cheeks.

Reply

Pigment is present in every skin but when an excessive amount accumulates in certain areas, we refer to the condition as "chloasma" or "moth patches." Among the causes are glandular disturbances, anemia, chronic indigestion, constipation, and pregnancy. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

Stomach, Not Heart

N. R. writes: What is cardiospasm?

Reply

This condition does not refer to the heart but to spasm of the muscles at the entrance to the stomach. The prefix "cardio" is used because this part of the gastric pouch is nearer the heart. Nervousness and the ingestion of irritating foods are the chief causes.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY

Mrs. G. writes: Could hating to be a housewife and mother cause nervous tension? I have no alternative and have tried to make the best of it but I become more nervous every day. I have never liked responsibility. Is there any help for me?

Reply

Yes, and so for any unpleasant life situation, to which an individual cannot adjust. You could try going to work and hiring some one to take care of your home and children. But your inability to adjust at home may indicate a basic fault in your personality and consequently, no assurance can be given that you will act any differently when you go into the business world. Nevertheless the plan is worthy of trial.

Anemia and Heels

D. H. writes: My heels are intensely painful when I stand, even after sitting for only a short time. Could a 50 per cent hemoglobin be responsible?

Reply

Yes, but pernicious anemia should also be considered. Furthermore, there are other causes of painful heels which should be investigated.

U. S. Withdrawal From Berlin Would Ruin Chance Of Rebuilding Western Germany; Business Enterprise There Discouraged By Russians, Says Amb. Murphy

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 28—When Gen. Lucius Clay testified before a closed-door session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee regarding Berlin, he was asked a question about the reconstruction of Germany. Before Clay could reply, Ambassador Robert Murphy, State Department representative in Germany, interrupted to answer for him.

Unfortunately, Murphy said, it was impossible to get private capital interested in Germany. Though the banks are full of money, everyone in Europe fears that when the United States moves out of Western Germany the Rusians will move in, Murphy said. That would mean the confiscation of all private property.

Ambassador Murphy gave this as one of the chief reasons why the United States could not leave Berlin now.

"If we pull out of Berlin," Murphy told the Congressmen, "people will say 'that is exactly what will happen in Western Germany later.' It would undermine all confidence in us."

When a German sets up a business enterprise in the American zone of Germany even today, Murphy told the Congressmen, a Russian agent is certain to come around and discreetly warn that if he continues his operation he will be put down in the Soviet black book. And when American troops move out and Russia moves in, he is told that he will be liquidated.

General Clay concurred with Murphy that this psychological factor was one of the biggest reasons why the United States had to say in Berlin. To withdraw would mean the end of whatever confidence the U. S. A. had built up in Western Germany.

How To Penetrate Iron Curtain

General public reaction to the idea of going over the head of the Kremlin by floating weather balloons from France and Germany over Russia with messages and gifts to the Russian people has been favorable. Government reaction has been reasonably favorable —though slow.

Both Government and private meteorological experts agree that the wind currents make the floating of such balloons entirely feasible. In fact, the Japs floated them all the way across the Pacific to Washington and Oregon. Their balloons, however, carried missiles of death; these would carry messages of friendship.

This columnist holds no brief for any particular means of reaching the Russian people. If any other way is better than balloons, fine. But I do maintain that as a nation we are doing almost nothing to get behind the Iron Curtain and show the Russian people that we are not what the Moscow propagandists say we are. Until we have some brake on the Kremlin to prevent it from declaring war overnight there will always be danger of war. That brake must be the Russian people.

Anyway here is a cross section of mail showing how the American people feel about it.

Balloons To Russia

Arthur B. Borden, Borden Mills, Inc., New York—Thanks for your open letter to Secretary for Air Symington re information to Russian people. Having had the honor of serving under General Le May both in India and Guam believe his boys could really do the job you suggest. The Borden Mills, Inc., of 90 Worth Street, New York City, would like to make a cloth contribution. . . . . Mrs. Herman H. Hardison, Bat Cave, N. C.—At last here is a powerful suggestion of how we may perhaps prevent another war. Showing our strength, but, with that strength getting to the Russian people wih messages containing facts about our country, and letting them know of our latent friendship. . . . Emerson Rupert, consultant, Bradenton, Fla.—I agree heartily with your ideas on reaching the Russian people directly. Your current suggestion can be followed up with a dynamic program to sell peace, democracy and freedom to all men.

We've got to exert every possible effort to avoid war. . . . . Edward Nielsen, Cozad, Neb.—Your letter to Stuart Symington is best suggestion for peace I have yet heard. I am sure if the Russian people understood us, they would not fight us. If I can help you in any way, I will! . . . . . H. A. Smith 226 S. W. 5th Ave., Miami, Fla.—A good big crowd of us have just finished reading your piece in Tuesday night's "Miami Herald" and it's a corker. If our fellows have got enough guts, they will pronto supply those "free" gifts from those swell firms that offered them, load those planes and do exactly as you described. . . . Robert B. Flanders, North Attleboro, Mass.—Very rarely do I feel as much moved as I was by your recent column in the form of an open letter to Secretary Symington. You might just possibly be interested in the fact that I read it in Joe Martin's own newspaper — The North Attleboro Chronicle. It is most heartwarming to have it publicized that the so-called "warmonger industrialists" are willing to be so generous for the cause of peace. Keep pounding on that theme. . . . Arnold J. Nelson, Washington, D. C.—I have been reading newspaper columns for years, but yours today, suggesting using our B-29s to carry leaflets to the Russian people so impressed me that I am writing my first letter to a columnist. . . . L. R. Dillingham, Portland, Ore.—Your suggestion relative to the friendship balloons is a grand idea, especially if they were carrying such articles as you mention. It's these simple, convincing things that reach the heart of most people. The general tendency of all peoples is friendliness. . . . M. S. Rackett, Richmond, Va.—This letter is being written simply to say that I approve most heartily of the line you are taking. Far from thinking you are "a terrible bore on the subject," I for one thrill with enthusiasm when you come out with these admirably constructive ideas. . . . Roy B. Seeley, Muskegon, Mich.—To me this is a wonderful idea and one that our Government should get behind. I am just an average citizen, neither a pacifist nor a warmonger, perfectly willing to fight if it is necessary, but hoping and praying for peace.

Part Played By Government Is Keeping Prices On Food High

By MARK SULLIVAN

Avondale, Chester County, Pa.: A young man on this farm, in a spirit of fun one day, conferred a name on one of the pigs, "Elizabeth"—in full "Elizabeth Arden." It was not that there was anything exceptional in this pig's looks to suggest the beautifying arts of which Miss Arden is an esteemed priestess and nationally-known practitioner; it was merely that the pig came from one of some farms hereabouts which Miss Arden bought a few years ago. As it happened this pig could have received utilitarian benefit from the ministrations of a cosmetician; it was a "Chester White", a breed which suffers some discrimination from hog raisers because it has a thin skin and is comparatively hairless, making it subject to serious sunburn in hot weather.

So far as my memory can recall, "Elizabeth" was the only pig on this farm that was ever given the distinction of a name, and I think that on farms generally custom designates pigs as merely "it", or "he", or "she", or perhaps "piggy" or "porky." Why pigs should be denied an elevation above anonymity which is conferred on horses and cows, I cannot surmise.

Leave It To Nature

But it was not about the anonymity of pigs that I set out to write, it was about their relation to a present national problem, now acute in Congress. I was moved by the exclamation of a farmer: "Scarcity of meat", he said, "ham at 70 cents a pound! Leave it to nature and the mother pigs; in three years they'll swamp the country with pork and ham'll sell at 15 cents a pound."

I was moved to a computation. A female pig will bear her first litter at about one year of age. In six months she will bear her second, and thereafter bear two litters a year; by the end of the third year she will be a great-grandmother in the fourth degree. The number of young in each litter will average about six—six and a fraction is the Department of Agriculture's figure for the nationwide average, though there is a generously-prolific sow in this neighborhood that bears sometimes as many as twelve.

Meanwhile the part of the first litter that is female, presumably three, will have begun to duplicate the mother's fecundity and multiply her descendants. So will succeeding litters. By the end of the third year, if I compute correctly, the three females in the first litter will have borne 90 young, and succeeding litters will have contributed to a total which I leave any arithmetic-minded reader to figure.

Government Won't Let It

The computation will have academic interest only; in practice, no such abundance will take place. If for no other reason, the government at Washington won't let it. For abundance of food means low prices to consumers, and against low prices the government sets the adamant face of bureaucratic power.

The Department of Agriculture policy of price support was begun the first year Henry Wallace was Secretary, in the Roosevelt Administration, with a step that made a sensation at the time. In the fall of 1933, the Department observed that there was in the country an exceptionally large number of young pigs, and of sows about to bear young. This would lead to low prices of pork. To prevent this the Department bought and killed 6,188,717 young pigs, ones weighing less than 80 pounds, and 222,149 sows about to farrow in the fall. The price paid was at the market plus a premium in some cases of $4 per pig. The pregnant sows were processed into salt pork. The young pigs were rendered into "inedible grease and fertilizer tankage." The yield of inedible grease was from 3 to 5 pounds per pig. "After the grease had been drained off the residue was . . . dumped . . . burned in the open, buried, or consumed at public incinerators."

Food Still Being Destroyed

That destruction of pigs, of food, in order to keep the price up caused an uproar of public indignation. One would have said it would never be repeated. But within the past two years the Department has destroyed millions of bushels of potatoes in order to support the price. And it may be obliged to do the same in its present effort to support the price of this year's large potato crop.

President Truman, writing his measure to the special session of Congress, set down these warning words: "As every housewife knows, food prices rose rapidly throughout 1947. They are climbing even faster now . . . People demand legislative action by their government to check inflation."

But neither Congress nor President Truman can be effective against inflation unless they face frankly the part played in it by the government itself in keeping up the price of food.

Emptiness Of Truman's Talk Deplored; Campaign Message

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 28 — The man whom the Republicans consider the "worst President in American history" and the man who called the Republican Congress the "worst Congress in history" have now come face to face, and the answer is politics and more politics.

Mr. Truman lost a God-given opportunity to reveal himself as a President of stature—far above the lowly ways of party politics. He could have presented a persuasive message on the essential needs of the country, with a bill of particulars. But instead he just made a palpably political address—almost unashamedly so.

When the President made his speech at the Democratic National Convention two weeks ago he said that Congress could pass needed legislation in about 15 days and still have time for campaigning. But when Mr. Truman talked to Congress, the propaganda opportunities apparently overcame his better judgment. He made a stump speech for the record.

Own Party Failed Him

If Congress were to tackle all the proposals made by the President, it would be in session for months, not just weeks. Mr. Truman failed to point out either to the Democratic National Convention or to the Congress that the 79th Congress, which was controlled in both Houses by the Democratic Party, failed to pass a housing bill and other important measures for which Mr. Truman now blames the 80th Congress.

After detailing some of his recommendations on prices and housing, the President spoke of "other problems of great moment" and urged that "if the Congress finds time to enact any of them now, the country will greatly benefit—certainly the next Congress should take them up immediately."

Thereupon Mr. Truman made a political speech on what the next Congress, which will be elected in November and begins in January, should do. He urged enactment of the following:

"A comprehensive health program, based on health insurance; a fair and sound labor-management relations law—in place of the Taft-Hartley Law which has proved to be unfair and unsound and which should be repealed; a real long-range farm program; a stronger reciprocal trade agreement act; a universal training program; a national science foundation; strengthened anti-trust laws; and approval of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty."

These are things which the President knows are for political consumption. He admits they have little to do with the present Congress. Yet he wonders why he has been so severely criticized for using his high office to advance his own personal ambitions.

Politics can, of course, be utilized to advance the interests of the people. There would have been nothing wrong in calling an extra session if the President had any constructive program to offer. But he called the session just to try to put his political opponents in a hole. His speech shows he has nothing really new to offer. He has, moveover, succeeded in estranging members of the Democratic Party, so many of whom voted for the enactment of the Taft-Hartley bill over his veto.

New Law In Modern Politics

Somehow or another the people do not expect Presidents to use presidential messages or personal appearances before Congress to make campaign speeches. No President has ever done it in such explicit terms, and it represents a new low in modern politics.

The Republicans in Congress cannot be absolved from playing politics. They, too, have avoided and evaded. But two wrongs do not make a right. Mr. Truman would have been better advised to have stated in a dignified way the requirements which were immediate and to have requested Congress to act expeditiously on them. A President who discards dignity loses prestige inside and outside his own party.

Whatever advantage in the game of politics there may have been in calling an extra session has been erased by the emptiness of the President's message, its failure to come to grips with essentials, and its plain effort to use the extra-session speech as a sounding board for a campaign. Such an episode is to be deplored by persons in all parties as tending to undermine faith in the institutions of democracy at a time when men should be rising above personal ambition to strengthen the institutions of democracy.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who Says Inflation?

ONE reason given by President Truman for calling this special session of Congress is that the country is suffering from inflation. He, of course, does not say that wages are too high, or that taxes are too high, or that government expenditures are too high; or, for that matter, that everything has moved to a higher level, thus altering the value of our dollar and creating a new set of proportions.

He is trying to give the impression that nothing is too high but prices, and Henry Wallace adds to prices, profits, and between them they are trying to build an election on an emotion.

This over-simplification may be good campaign talk, but there is another side to this picture. According to the National Industrial Conference Board, taking its data from Federal Reserve Bank reports:

"Demand deposits (excepting government and interbank) increased 119% from the end of December, 1941, to the end of January, 1948. Deposits of individuals rose 214% in the same period."

In a word, the savings of the people have increased in bank deposits of all sorts, rising from a total of $37,600,000,000 on December 31, 1941, to $82,400,000,000 on January 30, 1948. Individual accounts, which include all sorts of non-business people, like farmers, doctors, lawyers, workingmen, rose from $9,600,000,000 on December 31, 1941, to $30,100,000,000 on January 30, 1948. The largest proportionate rise, in percentages, is in this category of "individuals," which in the 1941 figure showed 25.5 per cent; in the 1948 figures, 36.5 per cent.

In a word, the American people are not going broke. No people can go broke who have money in the bank, if that money has purchasing power—and no one can deny that the American dollar still has purchasing power anywhere on Earth.

If, during the war years, the American people could not increase their wealth by buying things such as motor cars, refrigerators, etc., they nevertheless increased their wealth by putting money in the bank. It might be argued that the money is not worth as much in 1948 as it was in 1941, but the fact remains that income, in whatever form, must have exceeded outgo or there would be no balance in the bank. The plus and minus signs still mean something concrete to the American mind.

Therefore, what needs to be studied is our entire monetary and fiscal system. What makes prices high? My own estimate is that the biggest factor in high prices is high taxes, because every tax is added on to the price in some manner and the cumulative effect is enormous.

Taxes are high for correct and wrong reasons. They are high because we had a war which cost the American people some $300,000,000,000. Taxes are high because we have taken on two huge burdens on account of the war, namely, the servicing of the foreign debt and the care of the veterans and their families.

This burden we shall carry in our taxes for several generations. Adequate and proper administration may save a little, but it will not change the picture radically.

Another burden upon the American people and one that keeps prices high is the system of subsidies to farmers, workers, education, business which has been established over many years. This is not something that can be considered haphazardly. Farm prices can sink so low that our entire economy can be distorted; yet they need not be kept so high that our entire economy is distorted.

Government buying and stockpiling is inevitable, but there is no reason why this necessity should become a hidden and difficult-to-trace subsidy to business.

In summary, a scientific approach to this problem is necessary, not a hit-or-miss attempt to make campaign fodder out of it. No one will benefit by keeping that pot boiling with nothing in it but the sloppy verbiage of campaigning politicians. In the end, prices will be higher because Mr. Truman, in his desperation, is forced to meet demands which the country cannot afford to meet. Congress would do well to postpone this question of prices until it can be approached from the standpoint of national, not partisan, interest.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Sir Thomas Beecham, famous British conductor, believes there is no reason for musicians to be stuffy. He says an orangutan can play both the French horn and the flute, and he personally has seen a monkey play the piano.

This statement has upset Petrillo. He is already out organizing the monkeys.

I can see it all now . . . "Swing and swoon with Sam, the baboon."

I understand Frank Buck is now in Africa rounding up a few musicians.

A terrible thing happened in one all-monkey band . . . a monkey picked up a piccollo and tried to peel it.

Now when you want to hear the philharmonic on Sundays . . . you'll have to go to the zoo.

And when they play Latin music, instead of Maraccas, they'll use coconuts.

But my brother has had several lucrative offers to play with one of these bands . . . an agent saw him in an angora sweater.

Intelligent Approach To An Important Problem

Spade work now being done by the executive group of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee provides an unobstructed insight into what is hoped for. The committee is to be commended for its intelligent approach to a problem, the outcome of which could easily be one of the outstanding accomplishments in the city's history.

The prime purpose of the movement it to sell the advantages of Cumberland to outside industrial interests, in the hope of inducing them to locate within our gates. While such an undertaking has been too long delayed, it is heartwarming to find that the newly created organization is showing much promise of moving rapidly ahead in its endeavor.

As a preliminary step, a survey is to be made to bring to focus all the things Cumberland has to offer. This is important in that it will permit presenting in a nutshell the many advantages of the city. This has been done in the past but not on the scale now contemplated.

The decision of the CIPC to ascertain the reason for loss of some industries over the years will also prove of great value. It will aid in setting up a code as a guide to future dealings with industries and in the solicitation of new enterprises.

The plan to make every man, woman and child so well acquainted with our possibilities that they will serve as salespeople and ambassadors of goodwill, constantly on duty spreading that knowledge, is an important step.

Cumberland is sadly in need of new and diversified opportunities for employment of its constantly increasing population. The bringing here of industries in the small business category could easily serve as a barrier against a serious crippling of its economic welfare should recessions affect either one or both of the two major plants it is our good fortune to have. The program now being mapped can go far in achieving that goal to the end that the necessity of carrying all our eggs in one basket, so to speak, could be removed.

Of course, the success of the project will depend upon united, aggressive and vigorous action on the part of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee and everyone interested in the future expansion of the city. Whatever effort is contributed, whether it be large or small, will multiply many times, in economic values, when this ambitious program is realized.

If We Had Twenty Political Parties Instead Of Just Two

Harry Truman's pursuit of minority group support, often at the expense of the mass of the people whom he is supposed to represent, is becoming one of the most disgraceful chapters in American history.

The necessities of a desperate political situation have driven him far off what we believe to have been his natural course. He is obviously willing to sacrifice anything in order to hold together that strange alliance of divergent elements that made Franklin D. Roosevelt's re-elections possible. His Democratic platform, adopted at Philadelphia, was just one long list of promises to one group after another. And his present surge to the left, which promises to carry him further in that direction than any other American President has ever gone, is obviously an effort to take away from the Wallace Party its very reason for existence. Whatever else Truman has accomplished, it seems to us he has pretty nearly reached his goal.

But in other directions his wild-eyed policies carry a considerable threat of ending the two-party system in the United States. If Dewey succumbs to the temptation to compete with him, our old system obviously will not endure. If the two major parties are interested only in the present minority groups, which are numerous enough, it will be only a question of time when the various conservative and moderate elements, which are now being kicked around, and even the great middle class itself, will find a way of becoming vocal and making their votes count on election day.

Then we'll have ten or twenty parties—a situation for which our institutions make no provision whatsoever!

Exercising a reasonable degree of influence, the minority groups are all right. Ruling the country, as they are not far from doing at the present moment, they are apt to bring our magnificent structure of free constitutional government crashing down about our ears.

Cool Heads Needed To Prevent Upheaval In East

While the Berlin crisis continues to be extremely grave, the danger of its exploding into open warfare in the immediate future has been lessened by the decision of the western powers to try every possible diplomatic and peaceful methods of relieving the situation before restoring to drastic moves.

The decision to resort to every peaceful means to avoid an eruption of world-shaking consequences was a wise one. The United States, Britain and France have no intention of leaving Berlin or of giving an inch in the face of Russian pressure. Secretary Marshall has repeated this government's purpose of remaining firm. But there are still many ways in which the Russian squeeze can be countered without going to war. One of them came to light this week when the United States and Britain banned movements of trains to and from the Russian zone of Germany because of "technical difficulties."

The use of force can be extremely tricky. Sending an armored train to Berlin would have been a grand gesture but it would have been a difficult job at best. Even if the Russians decided not to attack it openly, they could, through their control of the railroad and its signals and switches, bring about a wreck, calling the result an accident.

The excellent success of the air-lift in bringing supplies to Berlin gives the western powers a breathing spell. In the next few weeks and months, provided the Russians do nothing seriously to threaten the air supply route, or adopt new methods of forcing the Allies out of Berlin, there will be time to try other means of settling the dispute. The American people would be wise to follow the lead of their Government and keep their heads cool. It will be time enough to succumbs to war hysteria after the last avenue to approach to a settlement has been exhausted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Treatment of Lung Abscess

When an abscess develops beneath the skin, it is a relatively simple matter to treat; the area is anesthetized and an incision made to allow pus to drain. Abscesses deeper in the body are serious because they are more difficult to handle. When they occur in the lungs, the problem may appear hopeless but this is not the case because there are several ways in which the condition can be managed.

Dr. Van Dellen

The first type of treatment is the conservative approach in which one of the wonder drugs—penicillin or streptomycin—is administered hypodermically or via the aerosol route. It is most useful when the abscess has ruptured into one of the bronchial tubes and the purulent material is expectorated by coughing. Drainage is often encouraged by placing the individual in a certain position, depending upon where the lesion is located. For example, lying on the left side is helpful when it is in the right lung and vice versa. If the lower lobe is involved, the secretion escapes more readily by keeping the head lower than the body. The opposite is true if the lesion is in the apex, or uppermost part. Meanwhile, the causative germs are being destroyed by the antibiotics and in due time, healing ensues.

The second methods of treatment are employed if drainage is slow in starting. The lung may be collapsed by pneumothorax or paralyzing the diaphragm. This often hastens recovery because the collapsed lung literally squeezes the puslike fluid out of the diseased cavity. Such procedures are utilized frequently in tuberculosis because they also facilitate healing of the surrounding infection in the lung.

If this therapy does not work, the abscess must be opened surgically in much the same way as similar lesions beneath the skin. If pus has accumulated near a bronchial tube, it can be done from the inside with a bronchoscope. This instrument is a flexible tube with an eyepiece at one end and a light at the other; through a series of lenses it is possible to visualize the inside of the lung. A cutting device is attached and, when the bulging abscess is reached, an opening can be made. This measure is obviously of value only in cases where the exact site of the lesion is known. It is particularly useful if a peanut or other foreign body has been inhaled, acting as the "starter" of the inflammation.

But the most frequently employed maneuver is to make an incision through the chest wall and the lung until the inflamed spot is reached. In order to do this, a segment of one or more ribs must be removed. To keep the wound open until oozing is complete, a tube is inserted; otherwise the skin might close over the surface, defeating the purpose of the operation. The tube also permits the surgeon to wash out the abscessed cavity in order to encourage removal of all the infected material. Antiseptic solutions are utilized for this purpose, especially those containing penicillin or streptomycin.

The decision as to which plan to use depends upon many factors. In general, surgery is not resorted to until more conservative means have been tried, but the tendency nowadays is to operate earlier; if there is no sign of healing after three to six weeks, operation is advised. Statistics show that when this is done, the outcome is much better.

Liver Spots

Mrs. N. writes: What causes pigment in the skin? Some months ago it started across my forehead and is spreading down my cheeks.

Reply

Pigment is present in every skin but when an excessive amount accumulates in certain areas, we refer to the condition as "chloasma" or "moth patches." Among the causes are glandular disturbances, anemia, chronic indigestion, constipation, and pregnancy. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

Stomach, Not Heart

N. R. writes: What is cardiospasm?

Reply

This condition does not refer to the heart but to spasm of the muscles at the entrance to the stomach. The prefix "cardio" is used because this part of the gastric pouch is nearer the heart. Nervousness and the ingestion of irritating foods are the chief causes.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY

Mrs. G. writes: Could hating to be a housewife and mother cause nervous tension? I have no alternative and have tried to make the best of it but I become more nervous every day. I have never liked responsibility. Is there any help for me?

Reply

Yes, and so for any unpleasant life situation, to which an individual cannot adjust. You could try going to work and hiring some one to take care of your home and children. But your inability to adjust at home may indicate a basic fault in your personality and consequently, no assurance can be given that you will act any differently when you go into the business world. Nevertheless the plan is worthy of trial.

Anemia and Heels

D. H. writes: My heels are intensely painful when I stand, even after sitting for only a short time. Could a 50 per cent hemoglobin be responsible?

Reply

Yes, but pernicious anemia should also be considered. Furthermore, there are other causes of painful heels which should be investigated.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Withdrawal From Berlin Would Ruin Chance Of Rebuilding Western Germany; Business Enterprise There Discouraged By Russians, Says Amb. Murphy

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 28—When Gen. Lucius Clay testified before a closed-door session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee regarding Berlin, he was asked a question about the reconstruction of Germany. Before Clay could reply, Ambassador Robert Murphy, State Department representative in Germany, interrupted to answer for him.

Unfortunately, Murphy said, it was impossible to get private capital interested in Germany. Though the banks are full of money, everyone in Europe fears that when the United States moves out of Western Germany the Rusians will move in, Murphy said. That would mean the confiscation of all private property.

Ambassador Murphy gave this as one of the chief reasons why the United States could not leave Berlin now.

.. "If we pull out of Berlin," Murphy told the Congressmen, "people will say 'that is exactly what will happen in Western Germany later.' It would undermine all confidence in us."

When a German sets up a business enterprise in the American zone of Germany even today, Murphy told the Congressmen, a Russian agent is certain to come around and discreetly warn that if he continues his operation he will be put down in the Soviet black book. And when American troops move out and Russia moves in, he is told that he will be liquidated.

General Clay concurred with Murphy that this psychological factor was one of the biggest reasons why the United States had to say in Berlin. To withdraw would mean the end of whatever confidence the U. S. A. had built up in Western Germany.

How To Penetrate Iron Curtain

General public reaction to the idea of going over the head of the Kremlin by floating weather balloons from France and Germany over Russia with messages and gifts to the Russian people has been favorable. Government reaction has been reasonably favorable —though slow.

Both Government and private meteorological experts agree that the wind currents make the floating of such balloons entirely feasible. In fact, the Japs floated them all the way across the Pacific to Washington and Oregon. Their balloons, however, carried missiles of death; these would carry messages of friendship.

This columnist holds no brief for any particular means of reaching the Russian people. If any other way is better than balloons, fine. But I do maintain that as a nation we are doing almost nothing to get behind the Iron Curtain and show the Russian people that we are not what the Moscow propagandists say we are. Until we have some brake on the Kremlin to prevent it from declaring war overnight there will always be danger of war. That brake must be the Russian people.

Anyway here is a cross section of mail showing how the American people feel about it.

Balloons To Russia

Arthur B. Borden, Borden Mills, Inc., New York—Thanks for your open letter to Secretary for Air Symington re information to Russian people. Having had the honor of serving under General Le May both in India and Guam believe his boys could really do the job you suggest. The Borden Mills, Inc., of 90 Worth Street, New York City, would like to make a cloth contribution. . . . . Mrs. Herman H. Hardison, Bat Cave, N. C.—At last here is a powerful suggestion of how we may perhaps prevent another war. Showing our strength, but, with that strength getting to the Russian people wih messages containing facts about our country, and letting them know of our latent friendship. . . . Emerson Rupert, consultant, Bradenton, Fla.—I agree heartily with your ideas on reaching the Russian people directly. Your current suggestion can be followed up with a dynamic program to sell peace, democracy and freedom to all men.

We've got to exert every possible effort to avoid war. . . . . Edward Nielsen, Cozad, Neb.—Your letter to Stuart Symington is best suggestion for peace I have yet heard. I am sure if the Russian people understood us, they would not fight us. If I can help you in any way, I will! . . . . . H. A. Smith 226 S. W. 5th Ave., Miami, Fla.—A good big crowd of us have just finished reading your piece in Tuesday night's "Miami Herald" and it's a corker. If our fellows have got enough guts, they will pronto supply those "free" gifts from those swell firms that offered them, load those planes and do exactly as you described. . . . Robert B. Flanders, North Attleboro, Mass.—Very rarely do I feel as much moved as I was by your recent column in the form of an open letter to Secretary Symington. You might just possibly be interested in the fact that I read it in Joe Martin's own newspaper — The North Attleboro Chronicle. It is most heartwarming to have it publicized that the so-called "warmonger industrialists" are willing to be so generous for the cause of peace. Keep pounding on that theme. . . . Arnold J. Nelson, Washington, D. C.—I have been reading newspaper columns for years, but yours today, suggesting using our B-29s to carry leaflets to the Russian people so impressed me that I am writing my first letter to a columnist. . . . L. R. Dillingham, Portland, Ore.—Your suggestion relative to the friendship balloons is a grand idea, especially if they were carrying such articles as you mention. It's these simple, convincing things that reach the heart of most people. The general tendency of all peoples is friendliness. . . . M. S. Rackett, Richmond, Va.—This letter is being written simply to say that I approve most heartily of the line you are taking. Far from thinking you are "a terrible bore on the subject," I for one thrill with enthusiasm when you come out with these admirably constructive ideas. . . . Roy B. Seeley, Muskegon, Mich.—To me this is a wonderful idea and one that our Government should get behind. I am just an average citizen, neither a pacifist nor a warmonger, perfectly willing to fight if it is necessary, but hoping and praying for peace.

Part Played By Government Is Keeping Prices On Food High

By MARK SULLIVAN

Avondale, Chester County, Pa.: A young man on this farm, in a spirit of fun one day, conferred a name on one of the pigs, "Elizabeth"—in full "Elizabeth Arden." It was not that there was anything exceptional in this pig's looks to suggest the beautifying arts of which Miss Arden is an esteemed priestess and nationally-known practitioner; it was merely that the pig came from one of some farms hereabouts which Miss Arden bought a few years ago. As it happened this pig could have received utilitarian benefit from the ministrations of a cosmetician; it was a "Chester White", a breed which suffers some discrimination from hog raisers because it has a thin skin and is comparatively hairless, making it subject to serious sunburn in hot weather.

So far as my memory can recall, "Elizabeth" was the only pig on this farm that was ever given the distinction of a name, and I think that on farms generally custom designates pigs as merely "it", or "he", or "she", or perhaps "piggy" or "porky." Why pigs should be denied an elevation above anonymity which is conferred on horses and cows, I cannot surmise.

Leave It To Nature

But it was not about the anonymity of pigs that I set out to write, it was about their relation to a present national problem, now acute in Congress. I was moved by the exclamation of a farmer: "Scarcity of meat", he said, "ham at 70 cents a pound! Leave it to nature and the mother pigs; in three years they'll swamp the country with pork and ham'll sell at 15 cents a pound."

I was moved to a computation. A female pig will bear her first litter at about one year of age. In six months she will bear her second, and thereafter bear two litters a year; by the end of the third year she will be a great-grandmother in the fourth degree. The number of young in each litter will average about six—six and a fraction is the Department of Agriculture's figure for the nationwide average, though there is a generously-prolific sow in this neighborhood that bears sometimes as many as twelve.

Meanwhile the part of the first litter that is female, presumably three, will have begun to duplicate the mother's fecundity and multiply her descendants. So will succeeding litters. By the end of the third year, if I compute correctly, the three females in the first litter will have borne 90 young, and succeeding litters will have contributed to a total which I leave any arithmetic-minded reader to figure.

Government Won't Let It

The computation will have academic interest only; in practice, no such abundance will take place. If for no other reason, the government at Washington won't let it. For abundance of food means low prices to consumers, and against low prices the government sets the adamant face of bureaucratic power.

The Department of Agriculture policy of price support was begun the first year Henry Wallace was Secretary, in the Roosevelt Administration, with a step that made a sensation at the time. In the fall of 1933, the Department observed that there was in the country an exceptionally large number of young pigs, and of sows about to bear young. This would lead to low prices of pork. To prevent this the Department bought and killed 6,188,717 young pigs, ones weighing less than 80 pounds, and 222,149 sows about to farrow in the fall. The price paid was at the market plus a premium in some cases of $4 per pig. The pregnant sows were processed into salt pork. The young pigs were rendered into "inedible grease and fertilizer tankage." The yield of inedible grease was from 3 to 5 pounds per pig. "After the grease had been drained off the residue was . . . dumped . . . burned in the open, buried, or consumed at public incinerators."

Food Still Being Destroyed

That destruction of pigs, of food, in order to keep the price up caused an uproar of public indignation. One would have said it would never be repeated. But within the past two years the Department has destroyed millions of bushels of potatoes in order to support the price. And it may be obliged to do the same in its present effort to support the price of this year's large potato crop.

President Truman, writing his measure to the special session of Congress, set down these warning words: "As every housewife knows, food prices rose rapidly throughout 1947. They are climbing even faster now . . . People demand legislative action by their government to check inflation."

But neither Congress nor President Truman can be effective against inflation unless they face frankly the part played in it by the government itself in keeping up the price of food.

Emptiness Of Truman's Talk Deplored; Campaign Message

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 28 — The man whom the Republicans consider the "worst President in American history" and the man who called the Republican Congress the "worst Congress in history" have now come face to face, and the answer is politics and more politics.

Mr. Truman lost a God-given opportunity to reveal himself as a President of stature—far above the lowly ways of party politics. He could have presented a persuasive message on the essential needs of the country, with a bill of particulars. But instead he just made a palpably political address—almost unashamedly so.

When the President made his speech at the Democratic National Convention two weeks ago he said that Congress could pass needed legislation in about 15 days and still have time for campaigning. But when Mr. Truman talked to Congress, the propaganda opportunities apparently overcame his better judgment. He made a stump speech for the record.

Own Party Failed Him

If Congress were to tackle all the proposals made by the President, it would be in session for months, not just weeks. Mr. Truman failed to point out either to the Democratic National Convention or to the Congress that the 79th Congress, which was controlled in both Houses by the Democratic Party, failed to pass a housing bill and other important measures for which Mr. Truman now blames the 80th Congress.

After detailing some of his recommendations on prices and housing, the President spoke of "other problems of great moment" and urged that "if the Congress finds time to enact any of them now, the country will greatly benefit—certainly the next Congress should take them up immediately."

Thereupon Mr. Truman made a political speech on what the next Congress, which will be elected in November and begins in January, should do. He urged enactment of the following:

"A comprehensive health program, based on health insurance; a fair and sound labor-management relations law—in place of the Taft-Hartley Law which has proved to be unfair and unsound and which should be repealed; a real long-range farm program; a stronger reciprocal trade agreement act; a universal training program; a national science foundation; strengthened anti-trust laws; and approval of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty."

These are things which the President knows are for political consumption. He admits they have little to do with the present Congress. Yet he wonders why he has been so severely criticized for using his high office to advance his own personal ambitions.

Politics can, of course, be utilized to advance the interests of the people. There would have been nothing wrong in calling an extra session if the President had any constructive program to offer. But he called the session just to try to put his political opponents in a hole. His speech shows he has nothing really new to offer. He has, moveover, succeeded in estranging members of the Democratic Party, so many of whom voted for the enactment of the Taft-Hartley bill over his veto.

New Law In Modern Politics

Somehow or another the people do not expect Presidents to use presidential messages or personal appearances before Congress to make campaign speeches. No President has ever done it in such explicit terms, and it represents a new low in modern politics.

The Republicans in Congress cannot be absolved from playing politics. They, too, have avoided and evaded. But two wrongs do not make a right. Mr. Truman would have been better advised to have stated in a dignified way the requirements which were immediate and to have requested Congress to act expeditiously on them. A President who discards dignity loses prestige inside and outside his own party.

Whatever advantage in the game of politics there may have been in calling an extra session has been erased by the emptiness of the President's message, its failure to come to grips with essentials, and its plain effort to use the extra-session speech as a sounding board for a campaign. Such an episode is to be deplored by persons in all parties as tending to undermine faith in the institutions of democracy at a time when men should be rising above personal ambition to strengthen the institutions of democracy.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who Says Inflation?

ONE reason given by President Truman for calling this special session of Congress is that the country is suffering from inflation. He, of course, does not say that wages are too high, or that taxes are too high, or that government expenditures are too high; or, for that matter, that everything has moved to a higher level, thus altering the value of our dollar and creating a new set of proportions.

He is trying to give the impression that nothing is too high but prices, and Henry Wallace adds to prices, profits, and between them they are trying to build an election on an emotion.

This over-simplification may be good campaign talk, but there is another side to this picture. According to the National Industrial Conference Board, taking its data from Federal Reserve Bank reports:

"Demand deposits (excepting government and interbank) increased 119% from the end of December, 1941, to the end of January, 1948. Deposits of individuals rose 214% in the same period."

In a word, the savings of the people have increased in bank deposits of all sorts, rising from a total of $37,600,000,000 on December 31, 1941, to $82,400,000,000 on January 30, 1948. Individual accounts, which include all sorts of non-business people, like farmers, doctors, lawyers, workingmen, rose from $9,600,000,000 on December 31, 1941, to $30,100,000,000 on January 30, 1948. The largest proportionate rise, in percentages, is in this category of "individuals," which in the 1941 figure showed 25.5 per cent; in the 1948 figures, 36.5 per cent.

In a word, the American people are not going broke. No people can go broke who have money in the bank, if that money has purchasing power—and no one can deny that the American dollar still has purchasing power anywhere on Earth.

If, during the war years, the American people could not increase their wealth by buying things such as motor cars, refrigerators, etc., they nevertheless increased their wealth by putting money in the bank. It might be argued that the money is not worth as much in 1948 as it was in 1941, but the fact remains that income, in whatever form, must have exceeded outgo or there would be no balance in the bank. The plus and minus signs still mean something concrete to the American mind.

Therefore, what needs to be studied is our entire monetary and fiscal system. What makes prices high? My own estimate is that the biggest factor in high prices is high taxes, because every tax is added on to the price in some manner and the cumulative effect is enormous.

Taxes are high for correct and wrong reasons. They are high because we had a war which cost the American people some $300,000,000,000. Taxes are high because we have taken on two huge burdens on account of the war, namely, the servicing of the foreign debt and the care of the veterans and their families.

This burden we shall carry in our taxes for several generations. Adequate and proper administration may save a little, but it will not change the picture radically.

Another burden upon the American people and one that keeps prices high is the system of subsidies to farmers, workers, education, business which has been established over many years. This is not something that can be considered haphazardly. Farm prices can sink so low that our entire economy can be distorted; yet they need not be kept so high that our entire economy is distorted.

Government buying and stockpiling is inevitable, but there is no reason why this necessity should become a hidden and difficult-to-trace subsidy to business.

In summary, a scientific approach to this problem is necessary, not a hit-or-miss attempt to make campaign fodder out of it. No one will benefit by keeping that pot boiling with nothing in it but the sloppy verbiage of campaigning politicians. In the end, prices will be higher because Mr. Truman, in his desperation, is forced to meet demands which the country cannot afford to meet. Congress would do well to postpone this question of prices until it can be approached from the standpoint of national, not partisan, interest.

It Says Here

Sir Thomas Beecham, famous British conductor, believes there is no reason for musicians to be stuffy. He says an orangutan can play both the French horn and the flute, and he personally has seen a monkey play the piano.

This statement has upset Petrillo. He is already out organizing the monkeys.

I can see it all now . . . "Swing and swoon with Sam, the baboon."

I understand Frank Buck is now in Africa rounding up a few musicians.

A terrible thing happened in one all-monkey band . . . a monkey picked up a piccollo and tried to peel it.

Now when you want to hear the philharmonic on Sundays . . . you'll have to go to the zoo.

And when they play Latin music, instead of Maraccas, they'll use coconuts.

But my brother has had several lucrative offers to play with one of these bands . . . an agent saw him in an angora sweater.

DDT Helping To Usher Out Jap Beetle Pest

Japanese beetles are not swarming the countryside as they used to because of several new weapons developed for the control of the pests, County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry declared.

Entomologists first developed a milky white spore disease which attacked the Jap beetle larvae. World War II then brought DDT which is an effective beetle exterminator.

If every farmer and property owner were to spray 50 per cent wettable DDT over their land, the bugs would be reduced to a minor worry, McHenry added. The beetles are breeding and will lay their eggs in the middle of August. He said that use of the DDT at that time would get rid of many of them.

The Jap beetles are turning up in more places, but there are fewer of them in areas formerly infested with them. In 1940, for instance, the Evitt's Creek section near the Cumberland Country Club was the worst in the county, but use of DDT has curbed the pest.

The Potomac River bottom lands from here to Rawlings and in the North Branch section are probably the worst infested, according to McHenry. He attributes this to the apparent neglect of the land in this section.

The water flea is so called from its skipping like a flea through the water. It is a minute phyllopod crustacean common in fresh water.

Ruppert board of directors in an uproar over the Babe Ruth flicker, main scenes of which show billboard signs of one of their biggest beer rivals! One film-handling outfit says it can bleach out the offending signs from the film, at a cost of $40,000. . . . As the final burn to the Rupperts, the picture finds Bill Bendix, as Babe, saying: "Tell the Colonel I'll never drink another glass of his beer." In other words, the brewmeisters don't think this is good public relations. . . . Death of Detective Dinny Mahoney, was a merciful release. All that worried Dinny, during his sickness, was that it was costing his family $100 a day. . . . The Paul (WAAT) Brenners called him Larry Bert. . . . Mad-dog killer Robert M. Daniels, on parole from Sept. 25 until he and his partner killed six Ohioans, never reported to or was located by Ohio's Parole Board! On six occasions, Probation and Parole Chief Klopfenstein asked his men to file a report on Daniels, but with only 20 officers handling 3,000 Ohio parolees, they never got around to it. . . . Mansfield, Ohio, probably will get jurisdiction over the killer, whose father said, "My boy went bad when he was a kid, and the country glorified Dillinger." . . . Drop a note to Mrs. Julie Podell, recovering a Mount Sinai from gall bladder operation. . . . DDT Helping To Usher Out Jap Beetle Pest

Japanese beetles are not swarming the countryside as they used to because of several new weapons developed for the control of the pests, County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry declared.

Entomologists first developed a milky white spore disease which attacked the Jap beetle larvae. World War II then brought DDT which is an effective beetle exterminator.

If every farmer and property owner were to spray 50 per cent of their land, the wettable DDT over their bugs would be reduced to a minor worry, McHenry added. The beetles are breeding and will lay their eggs in the middle of August. He said that use of the DDT at that time would get rid of many of them.

The Jap beetles are turning up in more places, but there are fewer of them in areas formerly infested with them. In 1940, for instance, the Evitt's Creek section near the Cumberland Country Club was the worst in the county, but use of DDT has curbed the pest.

The Potomac River bottom lands from here to Rawlings and in the North Branch section are probably the worst infested, according to McHenry. He attributes this to the apparent neglect of the land in this section.

The water flea is so called from its skipping like a flea through the water. It is a minute phyllopod crustacean common in fresh water.

Advice To The Lovelorn

She Didn't Want Him; Another Girl Did; Now She Is Jealous

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I met a boy, and after I had gone out with him a few times, he asked me to go steady. I refused. After that all we did was argue on our dates and we finally quit going together.

He met another girl and started going with her. This made me kind of jealous, and then I realized I love him and wanted to go with him again. A friend told him how I felt, and he called me and asked me for another date. I accepted but things didn't turn out very well. He didn't treat me very nicely and acted as if he was doing me a favor. Now I hear that he is still going with that same girl.

He used to be crazy about me and now I love him so much I don't know what to do. Please advise me.

"LILA"

Dear "Lila":

If you were able to get this boy back, I doubt very much if things would be any different than they were before. You would probably quarrel constantly the same way.

It sounds to me as if what you are really after is simply to soothe your pride by getting him away from the other girl, since you didn't find him indispensable to your happiness until he had taken up with someone else.

Anyhow, since he has so clearly indicated he has lost interest in you, you are very foolish to waste another thought on him.

Unhealthy Situation

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 and in love with a boy 19 who is in the Army with two more years still to serve. We plan to be married when he gets back.

During the first year he was away we each dated other people but after that we promised not to date any more. I now find this rather hard to do as I could have at least two or three dates a week. I trust myself and would like to get out and have some fun now and then. Do you think I should? If so, should I tell him? I would almost rather stay home than hurt him.

"B. R."

Dear "B.R.":

I think it is a great mistake for boys and girls as young as you are to commit yourselves so definitely that you cut yourselves off from the normal life of teen-agers. This is especially true when you have so long a time to wait before you could think of getting married. It is very unhealthy for any girl or boy of your age to stay home alone day after day and refuse the companionship of other teen-agers.

I certainly think that you should be free to go out with your friends and I think you should tell your boy friend quite frankly that you feel both of you should be equally free.

Compensation Claims Compared By Division

Last year's unemployment claims are being checked against employers' records of wages paid to applicants, Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Unemployment Compensation Division of the Department of Employment Security said.

Employers must submit an accession report No. 2-11 for each new employe within five business days after he has been hired, according to Kenney.

The Form 2-11 plan is one that is in use in a very few states so far and is used for reducing chances of fraud in applying for unemployment aid. Among other things, the form has a place for the date of hiring. This date is checked against the date given by the claimant that he was not employed. If this date is earlier than that given by the employer, there is a chance of fraud.

There is a $2 to $10 penalty for not turning in the Form 2-11 reports within the prescribed time, but it may be waived if there is a reasonable excuse for the delay. Kenney added that care is taken, also, to distinguish between attempts to defraud and mistakes in filing.

Just Between Us

If Sis Is Telling World Your Secrets, Stop Her By Strategy

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Somehow, your most private thoughts and feelings are being noised around, and you can't find the source. You've double-checked the list of your closest pals, the ones who are in on your every mood, and you're positive none of them is the culprit.

Nancy Mottram

But your diary material is the common property of the neighborhood, and your secrets are known by the people you most want to keep them from. It beats you and baffles you because you can't pin it down. More than that, all this chatter is putting monkey wrenches in your plans. The fellow you'd love to go out with knows it. And every fellow and gal in your crowd is up to date on the fact that you're party planning, and has your guest list down pat, even to those whom you don't intend to invite.

Then, by piecing together a lot of little items, the dawn begins to break over your confused head. Everything begins to fit and it finally becomes clear that the fifth column is none other than a member of your close family circle—your little sister, age 12.

You two have always been in opposite camps over the question of the clothes of yours that she wears without your O. K., the letters you get that find their way into her eager hands, and you can depend on her to loiter five feet away every time the phone rings for you. She's never far away when your dates arrive, and all your doings are told to all her pals.

Instead of taking her to task and bringing the wrath of your parents down on both of you, why not try a little strategy? Being older, you are her connection with the teenage world of dates, parties, and crowds going places and doing things. She wants to be part of it, and all her attentions aren't aimed to trouble you, but to feel that she's in on your social whirl.

You can do a lot to abolish the news leak that stems from your own home grounds if you'll use a little brain work. Although you don't have to make a confidante of her, tell her little things about what you and the rest of your buddies are doing. If she thinks she's part of your secrets and plans, she won't want to spoil her position by using your activities to pep up her lunch table talk. Tell her who your dates are and now and then ask her advice about the way you're fixing your hair or which dress looks best for a certain occasion. She'll be pleased that you notice her enough to ask her opinion, and will go out of her way to live up to your new friendliness.

Give her permission to wear a few things of yours, and she won't touch that new cotton you've been saving for Saturday night. Hand over your old lipsticks for her to experiment with, and though your parents don't allow her to wear it yet, she can try it out and begin to know the right kind of make-up to pick when she's older. A little consideration for a little sister can do a lot to get her out of your hair and on your side. And if she feels that you two are really friends, she will be careful to keep that status by acting as one.

Nancy can help with all your teen-age problems, so write her in care of this newspaper.

Permit Application Is Filed "Under Protest"

A. L. Brown, 505 Greenway Avenue, has filed "under protest" an application to build a garage for storage and repairs of cars and trailer trucks with five apartments over the first floor.

The "under protest" was filed on the original application along with an appeal to the Planning and Zoning Board for an occupancy permit.

The city engineer's office reported that Brown had applied previously for the permit but was refused by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer who claimed the property is in a residential zone and he did not have the right of issue. Brown withdrew the application before it reached the zoning board, however.

The building, to be located on Ridgewood Avenue at Warwick Avenue and facing an alley is located on Lot 18. It is planned to use concrete block, brick and asbestos shingles in its construction.

Rugged Time Ahead For Marine Reserves

Cumberland's Marine Reserve detachment is in for a rugged time during its two-weeks training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The training will include several days on the rifle range and instruction on the use of the M1 rifle, carbine and Browning automatic rifle.

Climax of the training will be simulated attack landing on Onslow Beach, near the camp. Combat planes and artillery fire will be used to enliven the attack.

About 80 per cent of the detachment will leave here August 21 for camp, according to Capt. John T. Fey, officer in charge.

Forfeit Bonds

Emmett L. Jones, Jr., 415 Washington Street, forfeited $5 bond yesterday when he failed to appear in Police Court for a hearing on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested Tuesday by city police.

Frank J. Dressman, Route 1, this city, forfeited $6.45 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court for passing on a curve in the Narrows June 30. State Trooper George E. Coddington made the arrest.

Another motorist, Charles E. Jenkins, Calla Hill, Mt. Savage, will stand trial Saturday on the same charge.

Tell her who your dates are and now and then ask her advice about the way you're fixing your hair or which dress looks best for a certain occasion. She'll be pleased that you notice her enough to ask her opinion, and will go out of her way to live up to your new friendliness.

Give her permission to wear a few things of yours, and she won't touch that new cotton you've been saving for Saturday night. Hand over your old lipsticks for her to experiment with, and though your parents don't allow her to wear it yet, she can try it out and begin to know the right kind of make-up to pick when she's older. A little consideration for a little sister can do a lot to get her out of your hair and on your side. And if she feels that you two are really friends, she will be careful to keep that status by acting as one.

Permit Application Is Filed "Under Protest"

A. L. Brown, 505 Greenway Avenue, has filed "under protest" an application to build a garage for storage and repairs of cars and trailer trucks with five apartments over the first floor.

The "under protest" was filed on the original application along with an appeal to the Planning and Zoning Board for an occupancy permit.

The city engineer's office reported that Brown had applied previously for the permit but was refused by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer who claimed the property is in a residential zone and he did not have the right of issue. Brown withdrew the application before it reached the zoning board, however.

The building, to be located on Ridgewood Avenue at Warwick Avenue and facing an alley is located on Lot 18. It is planned to use concrete block, brick and asbestos shingles in its construction.

Rugged Time Ahead For Marine Reserves

Cumberland's Marine Reserve detachment is in for a rugged time during its two-weeks training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The training will include several days on the rifle range and instruction on the use of the M1 rifle, carbine and Browning automatic rifle.

Climax of the training will be simulated attack landing on Onslow Beach, near the camp. Combat planes and artillery fire will be used to enliven the attack.

About 80 per cent of the detachment will leave here August 21 for camp, according to Capt. John T. Fey, officer in charge.

Forfeit Bonds

Emmett L. Jones, Jr., 415 Washington Street, forfeited $5 bond yesterday when he failed to appear in Police Court for a hearing on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested Tuesday by city police.

Frank J. Dressman, Route 1, this city, forfeited $6.45 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court for passing on a curve in the Narrows June 30. State Trooper George E. Coddington made the arrest.

Another motorist, Charles E. Jenkins, Calla Hill, Mt. Savage, will stand trial Saturday on the same charge.

Olympic Games Get Under Way In London Today

U. S. HOPEFULS WORK OUT—Mal Whitfield, left, of Bay City, Texas, who will compete in the 400 and 800 meter runs in the Olympic Games, and Bob Chambers of Los Gatos, Calif., who will compete in the 800 meter event, work out at Uxbridge, England, where the United States Olympic team is quartered. The games start today at Wembley Stadium in London.

Five Thousand Of 59 Nations Will Compete

80,000 To See Show, Cagers Play Friday

By GAYLE TALBOT

LONDON, July 28. — (AP) — The mightiest sports carnival in history will open here tomorrow in colorful ceremonies bringing 5,000 athletes from 59 nations together in Olympic rivalry.

Ten minutes of pageantry is all there is of the opening program. The only running will be done by men bearing the symbolic flame on its last lap from Greece.

A cheering weather forecast of "warm and sunny" touched off a last minute rush of ticket buying today as staid old London yielded at last to the Olympic fever.

Crowds stayed awake to cheer the Olympic torch on its way toward London. The torch landed this evening at Dover after passing through seven countries.

America's powerful contingent of men and women stars gathered at Uxbridge tonight to rehearse their part in the parade at tomorrow's ceremonies and to decide in what order the various teams will march.

U. S. Athletes Are Fit

A final survey of the several American training camps failed to turn up a single injury or illness of any importance. Uncle Sam's athletes have reached a peak of form and condition after a week's intensive training under a hot sun, and they will have no alibis.

The track and field aces merely tapered off today at Uxbridge. The temperature, bordering on 90 degrees, was not inducive to great effort, and the coaches were too hot, themselves, to insist.

Coach Bob Kiphuth's men swimmers and divers ran into a jam of athletes when they attempted to practice at the Wembley pool.

They scarcely could swim without kicking some fellow competitor, but they took the situation in fairly good grace and were promised an hour's period in the pool all by themselves tomorrow.

U. S. Quint Plays Swiss

The towering American basketball players returned from an exhibition tour of Scotland to find that no provision had been made for them to practice on the Olympic floor at Harringay Arena. That means they will play their opening game against the Swiss on Friday morning without having tested the championship boards.

They remain heavy favorites to run away with the Olympic crown, however. Coach Bud Browning said that, from what he had seen, his boys would get their stiffest competition from the Belgians and the Czechs.

Trout Of Tigers Breaks Boston's Winning Streak

Detroit Gets 18 Hits In 13 To 0 Triumph

DETROIT, July 28 (INS)—The Detroit Tigers today combined good pitching by Paul "Dizzy" Trout with heavy hitting to snap the Boston Red Sox 13-game winning streak, 13 to 0, before 16,622 fans.

Dizzy Trout

The Red Sox, despite their defeat, still lead the American League with four percentage points over the Philadelphia Athletics. Box:

CHISOX TRIM NATS

CHICAGO, July 28—(AP)—Marino Pieretti turned in a six hitter against his former Washington Senator teammates before 3,168 persons today to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 2-1 triumph.

It was the tiny righthander's sixth victory against three losses since coming to Chicago in exchange for pitcher Earl Harrist.

The victory enabled the cellar-chained White Sox to sweep the two game series from the Senators. It also provided the White Sox with a 9-8 edge in the seasonal series against Washington. Box:

TIPSY SPECTATOR OFFERS TO PLAY TIGER OUTFIELD

DETROIT, July 28 (AP) — It cost James Key, 42, an extra five dollars today to see last night's ball game between the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox.

Recorder's Judge Christopher Stein said it might have been worth it.

Patrolman Robert Peterson said Key, a spectator, suddenly dashed into centerfield and shouted at Tiger Walter (Hoot) Evers:

"Move over. I can do better than that."

Key appeared in court today on a drunk charge.

"Five dollars or 15 days," Judge Stein said. "Sometimes I've felt like doing that myself."

Ohio Bonesetter Says Treatments Will Aid Feller

Trouble Is Caused By Hardened Muscle

CLEVELAND, July 28 (AP) — A bonesetter today said a hardened muscle was the answer to why Bobby Feller hasn't been able to flash his customary form for the Cleveland Indians this year.

A. L. Austin, whom Feller credits with first helping him back in 1937, when he faltered at the beginning of his career, also warned that the hurler might be through unless the trouble is corrected.

He said a muscle in the right hander's right shoulder had hardened, probably as the result of overexertion.

"It's like a rubber band that has been stretched too far and too much," said Austin, who is licensed as a limited practitioner in mechano therapy.

"My fingers are sensitive and I know how to get down and work on the muscle," he declared. "Three or four treatments should put it back in shape again."

Feller, whose record of 20 victories and 11 losses last year contrasts with 10 wins and 12 defeats this season, first consulted Austin in 1937 when the pitcher was just 18.

A number of physicians and "arm experts" then had failed to solve the mystery of why he wasn't throwing the same assortment of baffling pitches for the Indians that year that he did the season before.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Austin helped," Feller said. "Before I went to him my elbow hurt every time I threw the ball.

"He popped something and within 24 hours I was as good as ever."

Feller denied today that his latest visit was anything more than routine and said there was nothing wrong with his arm.

"I've been going to Austin intermittently for years," he explained. "I went to him in 1946 when I was going good. I just wanted a checkup, the same as I did Monday."

Feller has tried numerous remedies this year in an effort to regain the hurling form so badly needed by the Tribe. These include pitching more, pitching less and cancelling all commercial appearances.

Browns Sign Catlett, Martinsburg Player

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 28 — (AP) — Bill Catlett, 18-year-old freshman infielder at Shepherd College last spring, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns and will report shortly to the St. Louis farm team at Miami, Fla.

Catlett has been playing third base this summer for the Martinsburg Municipal Athletic Association Athletics. He played shortstop for Martinsburg High School and has worked at second for the A's.

Should he stick with Miami, Catlett will be the second player from this area in the class C Florida-International League, Charles Miller, formerly at Hagerstown, is pitching for and managing Ft. Lauderdale.

Barton And Midland Will Play Dual Bill

Dodgers Rack Up Eight Runs In 5th, Trounce St. Louis

15-Hit Attack Helps Roe To 12-4 Verdict

NEW YORK, July 28. (INS)—Brooklyn Dodger bats, usually dormant behind pitcher Preacher Roe, awoke with a 15-hit bang today, to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 12 to 4.

The loss dropped the Cards into a third-place tie with the Giants.

Four Cardinal hurlers—the first, losing pitcher Ken Johnson—got a share of the cannonading, with George Munger really getting whacked in the fifth when the Dodgers scored eight runs.

Whitey Kurowski led a four-run outburst against the heat-fatigued Roe in the eighth with a two-run homer, his first this year. Box:

HARTUNG BLANKS REDS

NEW YORK, July 28. (INS)—The "new" Clint Hartung, armed with a new style and a fluttering knuckleball, hurled the New York Giants to their second successive shutout win over the Cincinnati Reds today—a 5 to 0, three-hitter.

Hartung, heretofore a side-armer, switched to an overhand delivery under instructions from Manager Leo Durocher. The much-publicized Hondo Hurricane then chalked up his sixth victory, his first shutout, and moved the Giants into a third-place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Balbar Sets Up Track Record In Sixth Race

Rough Cloud Scores Third Win Of Meet

Outsiders Win Six On Cumberland Day

Rough Cloud, five - year - old daughter of Swashbuckler, owned by Mrs. J. Yancey Christmas of Upper Marlboro, Md., became the first three times winner of the current race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association when she defeated Certified, the favorite, by four lengths yesterday in the fifth running of the Clifton W. White Handicap, main event on the Cumberland Day card, before a gathering of 8,000 persons.

C. Meyerhoffer was aboard the winner of the mile and one sixteenth feature in which there were only four starters and only win and place tickets were sold due to the scratching of Cassett and Friendly Miss.

Miss Prime Is Third

Miss Prime, winner of seven races at Charles Town and one here took show money and Comedy Player was last in the $1,500 feature.

Rough Cloud, which won here last Tuesday and Saturday, was the fourth winner of the session saddled by J. Yancey Christmas, who is now tied with Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., for the title of leading trainer. Quaker Brass' victory in the 7th was Mrs. Saportas' fourth winner in seven days.

Moore Presents Trophy

Clifton W. White, president and general manager, introduced Miss Juanita Lookabaugh—"Miss Cumberland" in the annual Maryland Beauty Pageant to be held here August 2—and Jack Moore, staff director of the pageant, presented the White trophy to Trainer Christmas. The trophy must be won three times by the same owner before it becomes his property.

Form players took a beating on the seventh day of the 10-day meeting when outsiders romped home first in the first six races on the program.

Mrs. L. B. Davis' Fair Mail started the rout of the favorites when he dashed home ahead of Fast Talk by the margin of two lengths to annex the opener. Roman Boy, the first choice of the bettors, ran 8th. The payoff on the winner was $13.60 for $2.

Up Jack Pays $30 for $2

Freddie Kratz returned to the winners' circle when he piloted Up Jack home in front of Worries and Victory Day in the second event in which Boy Larkmead, the favorite, ran out of the money. The $30 returned by Up Jack was the top price of the day.

The daily double combination of Fair Mail (1) and Up Jack (3) rewarded backers with $158.60 for each $2 investment.

Colonel Govans, L. Bauer up, scored a three lengths win over Rakish Jane in the third while Run Bud Run, the top choice, finished fourth. The price on the winner was $10.40.

Shangrila Stables' Lady Romery, a 10 to 1 shot, copped the fourth, finishing ahead of Lord Loudoun and Plymouth with Love My Gal, favorite of the bettors, coming in 6th. Those who played two bucks on the Lady's nose received $23.40.

Balbar Sets Track Record

Balbar, winner of the 8th race on the second day of the meeting, made it a double by taking the major portion of the $1,000 purse in the Col. William H. Robertson Memorial. In defeating Rex-Avis, a two-times winner here, over the distance of one mile and five sixteenths Balbar, owned by Mrs. G. Fishback and ridden by L. Lombardi, hung up a new track record of 2:19 4-5. The previous mark of 2:22 4-5 was set by Chiff Chaff in last Saturday's eighth race.

F. Brooke Whiting, Cumberland attorney, presented the Mrs. William H. Robertson trophy to M. Longerbeam, trainer of winning horse which paid a $24.80 mutuel.

Favorites captured the last two races of the day when Quaker Brass ($6.20) outran Karakal and Buckeye in the 6th and Dawndale took the final to win the Clary Club trophy. The trophy was presented by Col. Nelson W. Russler to Trainer W. F. Parks and the latter turned over the prize to Jockey R. D. Scott.

Sammy Palumbo, who had big days Saturday and Tuesday, had only three mounts yesterday and the trio finished out of the money. The veteran jockey, however, retained the lead with 66 points and Freddie Kratz is runner-up with 54.

$280,428 Is Wagered

The mutuel handle for the eight races and daily double yesterday was $280,428, which was $380 less than the amount wagered on the 7th day last year. A total of $1,750,595 has been played on the ponies to date. This is $7,821 below the seven-day figure of $1,758,417 in 1947.

Today is F. O. Eagles' Day and the trophy races are Marple's Jewelry Store, F. O. Eagles, Mrs. Howard E. Chaney and the Oakland (Md.) purse with Hinebaugh Restaurant Trophy. Post time is 2:30 E.D.T.

Olympic Games Get Under Way In London Today

U. S. HOPEFULS WORK OUT—Mal Whitfield, left, of Bay City, Texas, who will compete in the 400 and 800 meter runs in the Olympic Games, and Bob Chambers of Los Gatos, Calif., who will compete in the 800 meter event, work out at Uxbridge, England, where the United States Olympic team is quartered. The games start today at Wembley Stadium in London.

Five Thousand Of 59 Nations Will Compete

By GAYLE TALBOT

LONDON, July 28. — (AP) — The mightiest sports carnival in history will open here tomorrow in colorful ceremonies bringing 5,000 athletes from 59 nations together in Olympic rivalry.

Ten minutes of pageantry is all there is of the opening program. The only running will be done by men bearing the symbolic flame on its last lap from Greece.

A cheering weather forecast of "warm and sunny" touched off a last minute rush of ticket buying today as staid old London yielded at last to the Olympic fever.

Crowds stayed awake to cheer the Olympic torch on its way toward London. The torch landed this evening at Dover after passing through seven countries.

America's powerful contingent of men and women stars gathered at Uxbridge tonight to rehearse their part in the parade at tomorrow's ceremonies and to decide in what order the various teams will march.

U. S. Athletes Are Fit

A final survey of the several American training camps failed to turn up a single injury or illness of any importance. Uncle Sam's athletes have reached a peak of form and condition after a week's intensive training under a hot sun, and they will have no alibis.

The track and field aces merely tapered off today at Uxbridge. The temperature, bordering on 90 degrees, was not inducive to great effort, and the coaches were too hot, themselves, to insist.

Coach Bob Kiphuth's men swimmers and divers ran into a jam of athletes when they attempted to practice at the Wembley pool.

They scarcely could swim without kicking some fellow competitor, but they took the situation in fairly good grace and were promised an hour's period in the pool all by themselves tomorrow.

U. S. Quint Plays Swiss

The towering American basketball players returned from an exhibition tour of Scotland to find that no provision had been made for them to practice on the Olympic floor at Harringay Arena. That means they will play their opening game against the Swiss on Friday morning without having tested the championship boards.

They remain heavy favorites to run away with the Olympic crown, however. Coach Bud Browning said that, from what he had seen, his boys would get their stiffest competition from the Belgians and the Czechs.

Trout Of Tigers Breaks Boston's Winning Streak

Detroit Gets 18 Hits In 13 To 0 Triumph

DETROIT, July 28 (INS)—The Detroit Tigers today combined good pitching by Paul "Dizzy" Trout with heavy hitting to snap the Boston Red Sox 13-game winning streak, 13 to 0, before 16,622 fans.

Dizzy Trout

Trout held the Boston team to six hits while Tiger batters slugged out 18 off three Hub pitchers, including a home run by Eddie Lake.

TIPSY SPECTATOR OFFERS TO PLAY TIGER OUTFIELD

DETROIT, July 28 (AP) — It cost James Key, 42, an extra five dollars today to see last night's ball game between the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox.

Recorder's Judge Christopher Stein said it might have been worth it.

Patrolman Robert Peterson said Key, a spectator, suddenly dashed into centerfield and shouted at Tiger Walter (Hoot) Evers:

"Move over. I can do better than that."

Key appeared in court today on a drunk charge.

"Five dollars or 15 days," Judge Stein said. "Sometimes I've felt like doing that myself."

Ohio Bonesetter Says Treatments Will Aid Feller

Trouble Is Caused By Hardened Muscle

CLEVELAND, July 28 (AP) — A bonesetter today said a hardened muscle was the answer to why Bobby Feller hasn't been able to flash his customary form for the Cleveland Indians this year.

A. L. Austin, whom Feller credits with first helping him back in 1937, when he faltered at the beginning of his career, also warned that the hurler might be through unless the trouble is corrected.

He said a muscle in the right hander's right shoulder had hardened, probably as the result of overexertion.

"It's like a rubber band that has been stretched too far and too much," said Austin, who is licensed as a limited practitioner in mechano therapy.

"My fingers are sensitive and I know how to get down and work on the muscle," he declared. "Three or four treatments should put it back in shape again."

Feller, whose record of 20 victories and 11 losses last year contrasts with 10 wins and 12 defeats this season, first consulted Austin in 1937 when the pitcher was just 18.

A number of physicians and "arm experts" then had failed to solve the mystery of why he wasn't throwing the same assortment of baffling pitches for the Indians that year that he did the season before.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Austin helped," Feller said. "Before I went to him my elbow hurt every time I threw the ball.

"He popped something and within 24 hours I was as good as ever."

Feller denied today that his latest visit was anything more than routine and said there was nothing wrong with his arm.

"I've been going to Austin intermittently for years," he explained. "I went to him in 1946 when I was going good. I just wanted a check-up, the same as I did Monday."

Feller has tried numerous remedies this year in an effort to regain the hurling form so badly needed by the Tribe. These include pitching more, pitching less and cancelling all commercial appearances.

Browns Sign Catlett, Martinsburg Player

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 28 — (AP) — Bill Catlett, 18-year-old freshman infielder at Shepherd College last spring, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns and will report shortly to the St. Louis farm team at Miami, Fla.

Catlett has been playing third base this summer for the Martinsburg Municipal Athletic Association Athletics. He played shortstop for Martinsburg High School and has worked at second for the A's.

Should he stick with Miami, Catlett will be the second player from this area in the class C Florida-International League, Charles Miller, formerly at Hagerstown, is pitching for and managing Ft. Lauderdale.

Dodgers Rack Up Eight Runs In 5th, Trounce St. Louis

15-Hit Attack Helps Roe To 12-4 Verdict

NEW YORK, July 28. (INS)—Brooklyn Dodger bats, usually dormant behind pitcher Preacher Roe, awoke with a 15-hit bang today, to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 12 to 4.

The loss dropped the Cards into a third-place tie with the Giants.

Four Cardinal hurlers—the first, losing pitcher Ken Johnson—got a share of the cannonading, with George Munger really getting whacked in the fifth when the Dodgers scored eight runs.

Whitey Kurowski led a four-run outburst against the heat-fatigued Roe in the eighth with a two-run homer, his first this year. Box:

HARTUNG BLANKS REDS

NEW YORK, July 28. (INS)—The "new" Clint Hartung, armed with a new style and a fluttering knuckleball, hurled the New York Giants to their second successive shutout win over the Cincinnati Reds today—a 5 to 0, three-hitter.

Hartung, heretofore a side-armer, switched to an overhand delivery under instructions from Manager Leo Durocher. The much-publicized Hondo Hurricane then chalked up his sixth victory, his first shutout, and moved the Giants into a third-place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Balbar Sets Up Track Record In Sixth Race

Outsiders Win Six On Cumberland Day

Rough Cloud, five - year - old daughter of Swashbuckler, owned by Mrs. J. Yancey Christmas of Upper Marlboro, Md., became the first three times winner of the current race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association when she defeated Certified, the favorite, by four lengths yesterday in the fifth running of the Clifton W. White Handicap, main event on the Cumberland Day card, before a gathering of 8,000 persons.

C. Meyerhoffer was aboard the winner of the mile and one sixteenth feature in which there were only four starters and only win and place tickets were sold due to the scratching of Cassett and Friendly Miss.

Miss Prime Is Third

Miss Prime, winner of seven races at Charles Town and one here took show money and Comedy Player was last in the $1,500 feature.

Rough Cloud, which won here last Tuesday and Saturday, was the fourth winner of the session saddled by J. Yancey Christmas, who is now tied with Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., for the title of leading trainer. Quaker Brass' victory in the 7th was Mrs. Saportas' fourth winner in seven days.

Moore Presents Trophy

Clifton W. White, president and general manager, introduced Miss Juanita Lookabaugh—"Miss Cumberland" in the annual Maryland Beauty Pageant to be held here August 2—and Jack Moore, star director of the pageant, presented the White trophy to Trainer Christmas. The trophy must be won three times by the same owner before it becomes his property.

Form players took a beating on the seventh day of the 10-day meeting when outsiders romped home first in the first six races on the program.

Mrs. L. B. Davis' Fair Mail started the rout of the favorites when he dashed home ahead of Fast Talk by the margin of two lengths to annex the opener. Roman Boy, the first choice of the bettors, ran 8th. The payoff on the winner was $13.60 for $2.

Up Jack Pays $30 for $2

Freddie Kratz returned to the winners' circle when he piloted Up Jack home in front of Worries and Victory Day in the second event in which Boy Larkmead, the favorite, ran out of the money. The $30 returned by Up Jack was the top price of the day.

The daily double combination of Fair Mail (1) and Up Jack (3) rewarded backers with $158.60 for each $2 investment.

Colonel Govans, L. Bauer up, scored a three lengths win over Rakish Jane in the third while Run Bud Run, the top choice, finished fourth. The price on the winner was $10.40.

Shangrila Stables' Lady Romery, a 10 to 1 shot, copped the fourth, finishing ahead of Lord Loudoun and Plymouth with Love My Gal, favorite of the bettors, coming in 6th. Those who played two bucks on the Lady's nose received $23.40.

Balbar Sets Track Record

Balbar, winner of the 8th race on the second day of the meeting, made it a double by taking the major portion of the $1,000 purse in the Col. William H. Robertson Memorial. In defeating Rex-Avis, a two-times winner here, over the distance of one mile and five sixteenths Balbar, owned by Mrs. G. Fishback and ridden by L. Lombardi, hung up a new track record of 2:19 4-5. The previous mark of 2:22 4-5 was set by Chiff Chaff in last Saturday's eighth race.

F. Brooke Whiting, Cumberland attorney, presented the Mrs. William H. Robertson trophy to M. Longerbeam, trainer of winning horse which paid a $24.80 mutuel.

Favorites captured the last two races of the day when Quaker Brass ($6.20) outran Karakal and Buckeye in the 6th and Dawndale took the final to win the Clary Club trophy. The trophy was presented by Col. Nelson W. Russler to Trainer W. P. Parks and the latter turned over the prize to Jockey R. D. Scott.

Sammy Palumbo, who had big days Saturday and Tuesday, had only three mounts yesterday and the trio finished out of the money. The veteran jockey, however, retained the lead with 66 points and Freddie Kratz is runner-up with 54.

$280,428 Is Wagered

The mutuel handle for the eight races and daily double yesterday was $280,428, which was $380 less than the amount wagered on the 7th day last year. A total of $1,750,595 has been played on the ponies to date. This is $7,821 below the seven-day figure of $1,758,417 in 1947.

Today is F. O. Eagles' Day and the trophy races are Marple's Jewelry Store, F. O. Eagles, Mrs. Howard E. Chaney and the Oakland (Md.) purse with Hinebaugh Restaurant Trophy. Post time is 2:30 E.D.T.

Only Baltimore City, Baltimore and Montgomery counties paid more in sales taxes than Allegany. The Baltimore City payments totaled $14,098,167 and represented 59.67 per cent of the state's total. The average in Baltimore was $15.15.

Baltimore county accounted for $1,437,915 and an average of $7.56 while Montgomery county had $928,942 for an average of $8.14. Baltimore county paid $4,136 in license fees and Montgomery accounted for $1,744.

In Garrett county, which had the lowest state average, payments totaled $96,643 and averaged $4.16. License fees were $501.

Dumping Law Is Declared Valid

It is still against the law to dump refuse in Wills Creek, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan announced yesterday.

The acquittal of two men in Circuit Court recently on a charge of dumping refuse in the stream will not necessitate a change in the 21-year-old city ordinance, he added, explaining the cases against E. J. Thompson and K. T. Hager were dismissed when a technicality arose.

Chief Judge William A. Huster, the city attorney said, was not satisfied that the two men were the ones dumping the refuse. In addition, he said, there was some dispute over what constitutes the banks of the creek.

Finan said that future violations of the ordinance will raise the question of proof. The banks must also be defined, he said.

Banks are defined, he said as "That eclivity which contains a natural water course and before it overflows its natural boundary."

Cigaret Prices May Increase Soon

The price of cigarets may be increased one half or one cent a pack within the next month, local trade sources indicated yesterday.

The main reason for the anticipated increase, they added, is the higher price being paid farmers for this year's tobacco crop. The cost of leaf tobacco, distributors said, accounts for about 70 per cent of the manufactured price. Cigarets cost from 16 to 19 cents a pack for standard brands in Cumberland.

Isn't A Newsboy

City Police said yesterday that Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Brown, 612 North Centre Street and a newspaper route carrier, is not the "Robert Brown" involved in a Juvenile Court case earlier in the week.

Man Gets Suspended Sentence For Assault

Neil Shook, 211 Railroad Alley, received a suspended sentence of 30 days in the county jail yesterday when he pleaded guilty, at a hearing before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Trial Magistrates Court, of assaulting 16-year-old Robert Keller, this city, Monday.

Shook and his wife, Marjie, were also charged with assaulting the youth's mother, Mrs. Gladys Keller. The former was acquitted and the latter received a suspended sentence.

Magistrate Bruce held open another assault case involving Mrs. Betty Knick, 312 Davidson Street. The prosecuting witness was listed as Lavonne Canfield.

The town of Wakefield, Mass., was settled about 1639, and was incorporated as South Reading in 1812. It received its present name in 1868.

In Roman myth Tellus was the ancient Italian deity personifying the earth, viewed from the standpoint of its productiveness. She was the goddess of marriage, fecundity and fertility, and also was solemnly invoked as the grave of all things.

Young Doe Adopted By Swanton Family Resists "Call Of Wild"

SWANTON—The "call of the wild" doesn't impress Star, a doe living with Mrs. Tressa Friend, Route 3. Resisting all pleas from visiting committees of her kind, she is still roaming the Friend cow pasture and seems to intend to stay there.

She has lived with the Friends since the son, Paul R. Friend, picked her up on the road on July 5, 1947. She was too exhausted to move. Realizing that something had happened to her, Paul took her home.

Mrs. Friend keeps a supply of nursing bottles for her lambs and offered one to Star. She grabbed at it and started eating.

The game warden, upon being notified, said that the fawn's mother might have been a doe that had been killed on a railroad a few days before. He said that the Friends might keep Star if they wished to feed her until she was old enough to fend for herself.

Soon the fawn was drinking three pints of milk a day and liked fruits and vegetables. She often would eat from the pan in which Mrs. Friend was preparing vegetables.

Star is free to go at anytime, but she won't leave. She stays in the cow pasture, and Mrs. Friend says that she is tamer than some of her lambs. Other deer will come in to see Star, but she refuses to leave with them.

Star is a pet rather than a wild animal. Visitors came from Baltimore to the Friend home and asked to take pictures. She posed very prettily.

Mrs. Friend believes that the reason for Star's domestication is that she came to them when she was so young. Although she has now outgrown her baby markings, she hasn't outgrown the hands that feed her.

Council To Appoint Nine-Member Board

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Keyser Co-ordinating Committee, formed recently to provide the city with a municipal swimming pool and a well-blanced year-round recreation program, at a meeting Tuesday night selected 12 names from a list of more than 25 to be submitted to the Mayor and City Council, which will then appoint a nine-member recreation board.

The decision to select 12 names instead of nine, as previously planned, was made following a suggestion from the Mayor and Council.

Following the appointment of the board members by the Mayor and Council, both groups will review plans for a swimming pool and general recreation program. The board members will set up committees on finance, location, and plans and specifications.

Nearly all of Keyser's leading organizations were represented at the meeting and the various representatives showed enthusiasm for the latest pool-recreation movement.

Mother Sentenced To Jail Term In Delinquency Case

Wiley Ford Woman Pleads Guilty

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mrs. Margaret Baker, a Wiley Ford resident, who was indicted by the Mineral County grand jury Tuesday for contributing to the delinquency of her four minor children, was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See.

Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney, stated that circumstances surrounding the Baker case were the most deplorable ever known in Mineral County.

Rankin stated to the court that Mrs. Baker and her four children, her ex-husband, her mother and her mother's children, lived in a "filthy" three-room shack in Wiley Ford.

On numerous occasions, Rankin continued, Mrs. Baker left her children in the custody of her ex-husband and was away two and three days at a time, leaving the children without food and very shabbily clothed.

At one time, Rankin said, when the home was visited by Mineral County authorities, the youngest of the children, an 18-month-old girl, was found in a basket with two dogs, while the three older children were found roaming the neighborhood begging food.

Found Children Hungry

Also testifying to the conditions was Miss Margaret Jordan, of the Mineral County Welfare Department, who said that she had found the children hungry, dirty and left at home without the mother to care for them.

James A. Dixon, Mineral County sheriff, stated that he had found Mrs. Baker in a beer parlor in Cumberland several months prior to her arrest and had told her then to go home and take care of the children.

Mrs. Baker, when questioned about the case, stated that her ex-husband, her boy friend, her mother, her mother's children and her four children all lived in the three-room shanty, which county authorities described as being built of cross-ties.

The woman entered a plea of guilty to the charge. She was arrested on July 3 and was held in the Mineral County jail in default of a $500 bond for her appearance yesterday.

John William Wilson, Jr., indicted for exhibiting a gaming device and operating a slot machine, both in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, Blaine, was fined $100 and court costs on each count and was paroled from a three-month jail sentence for a period of three years.

Bonds Posted

Also appearing before Judge See yesterday was Frank Seymore Mayhew, indicted for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Mayhew entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and posted $500 bond for his appearance at the October term of court.

Edward Dale Schoonover, indicted for contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, entered a plea of not guilty and posted a bond of $500 for his appearance at the October term of court.

H. R. Athey, attorney for Gerald Clifton Fazenbaker, who is charged with the theft of a truck, property of Stanley Spencer, stated that Fazenbaker, who is now in the Army, would be in Keyser tomorrow and would appear before Judge See.

Two Piedmont youths who appeared before Judge See during the April term of court and entered pleas of guilty to the charges of unauthorized use of a roller, property of the City of Piedmont, and who were ordered to report to Judge See during the July term of court, appeared before him yesterday and stated that they had been of good behavior since their last appearance before him.

Miss Jordan, of the Welfare Department, reported to Judge See that she knew of no trouble that the boys had been in since that time. Sentencing the youths was again deferred until the October term of Court, upon the recommendation of Rankin.

Judge See announced yesterday that there would be no jury trials during this term of court. However, divorce cases will be heard by the judge for several days.

A divorce was granted yesterday to Dorothy Thompson Rhodes from Earl Russell Rhodes.

12 Are Nominated For Recreation Group In Keyser

Council To Appoint Nine-Member Board

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Keyser Co-ordinating Committee, formed recently to provide the city with a municipal swimming pool and a well-blanced year-round recreation program, at a meeting Tuesday night selected 12 names from a list of more than 25 to be submitted to the Mayor and City Council, which will then appoint a nine-member recreation board.

The decision to select 12 names instead of nine, as previously planned, was made following a suggestion from the Mayor and Council.

The 12 nominated for the recreation board positions are Dana G. Lough, John Shelton, Edgell Grayson, C. F. Rice, Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, Fred Clark, Charles Bolyard, R. O. Martin, Ervin Dayton, Lester McDowell, Miss Betty Neuhauser and Attorney Emory Tyler.

Officers of the co-ordinating committee reported on their inspection of sites suggested for the swimming pool. Several other sites were proposed during Tuesday night's meeting, but the committee took no definite action pending a more complete survey and final appointment of the recreation board.

Following the appointment of the board members by the Mayor and Council, both groups will review plans for a swimming pool and general recreation program. The board members will set up committees on finance, location, and plans and specifications.

Nearly all of Keyser's leading organizations were represented at the meeting and the various representatives showed enthusiasm for the latest pool-recreation movement.

The representatives were asked to make a full report on the meeting to their respective groups and to ask their clubs to pass resolutions endorsing the pool-recreation program.

The affair is designed to commemorate the new White Way lighting system and at the same time to raise funds for use in providing street decorations at Christmas time and on other holidays.

Soap Box Race Rules

The first official event of the celebration will be a soap box race on Douglas Avenue Wednesday at 2 p. m. Morgan Riley, who is in charge, announces the following rules governing the competition.

Mother Sentenced To Jail Term In Delinquency Case

Wiley Ford Woman Pleads Guilty

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mrs. Margaret Baker, a Wiley Ford resident, who was indicted by the Mineral County grand jury Tuesday for contributing to the delinquency of her four minor children, was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See.

Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney, stated that circumstances surrounding the Baker case were the most deplorable ever known in Mineral County.

Rankin stated to the court that Mrs. Baker and her four children, her ex-husband, her mother and her mother's children, lived in a "filthy" three-room shack in Wiley Ford.

At one time, Rankin said, when the home was visited by Mineral County authorities, the youngest of the children, an 18-month-old girl, was found in a basket with two dogs, while the three older children were found roaming the neighborhood begging food.

Found Children Hungry

Also testifying to the conditions was Miss Margaret Jordan, of the Mineral County Welfare Department, who said that she had found the children hungry, dirty and left at home without the mother to care for them.

James A. Dixon, Mineral County sheriff, stated that he had found Mrs. Baker in a beer parlor in Cumberland several months prior to her arrest and had told her then to go home and take care of the children.

Mrs. Baker, when questioned about the case, stated that her ex-husband, her boy friend, her mother, her mother's children and her four children all lived in the three-room shanty, which county authorities described as being built of cross-ties.

The woman entered a plea of guilty to the charge. She was arrested on July 3 and was held in the Mineral County jail in default of a $500 bond for her appearance yesterday.

John William Wilson, Jr., indicted for exhibiting a gaming device and operating a slot machine, both in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, Blaine, was fined $100 and court costs on each count and was paroled from a three-month jail sentence for a period of three years.

Bonds Posted

Also appearing before Judge See yesterday was Frank Seymore Mayhew, indicted for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Mayhew entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and posted $500 bond for his appearance at the October term of court.

Edward Dale Schoonover, indicted for contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, entered a plea of not guilty and posted a bond of $500 for his appearance at the October term of court.

H. R. Athey, attorney for Gerald Clifton Fazenbaker, who is charged with the theft of a truck, property of Stanley Spencer, stated that Fazenbaker, who is now in the Army, would be in Keyser tomorrow and would appear before Judge See.

Two Piedmont youths who appeared before Judge See during the April term of court and entered pleas of guilty to the charges of unauthorized use of a roller, property of the City of Piedmont, and who were ordered to report to Judge See during the July term of court, appeared before him yesterday and stated that they had been of good behavior since their last appearance before him.

Miss Jordan, of the Welfare Department, reported to Judge See that she knew of no trouble that the boys had been in since that time. Sentencing the youths was again deferred until the October term of Court, upon the recommendation of Rankin.

Judge See announced yesterday that there would be no jury trials during this term of court. However, divorce cases will be heard by the judge for several days.

A divorce was granted yesterday to Dorothy Thompson Rhodes from Earl Russell Rhodes.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 28—(INS)—Today's whisper around Hollywood is that Errol Flynn returns August 1 for "Flamingo Road." Well, he will be in Hollywood on that date, but not for the Joan Crawford picture.

Virginia Grey

After this, I think Flynn will ask for a leave of absence to make that long guessed about "outside" picture for MGM or to spend the time recuperating and getting his strength back. He feels much better since his long holiday in Jamaica.

Walter Winchell will narrate the prologue on Bob Hope's "Sorrowful Jones," turning over all the moola he gets to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Paramount couldn't have found themselves a better boy to tell the public about the Damon Runyon story. Winchell and Runyon were as close as brothers. Since Damon's death, Walter's campaign for the memorial fund he created has been a labor of love and devotion.

Seems Dick is buying himself a new boat and taking off for a six-month cruise fishing in lazy waters. June is not going along and she thinks the big house is too much to handle alone.

She takes an apartment until "Little Women" is finished and then she will head east to visit her mother until Dick returns.

Just goes to show that you never know when or where the big romance is going to crop up. Virginia met the good-looking doctor when she went to him to consult about her health. She suffers from bursitis and has a minor operation coming up.

• — • — •

Welcome back to New York, Louella Parsons:

Lop and Dr. Harry Martin will arrive in the good old USA tomorrow after a two-month tour of Europe.

The Martins leave New York next Monday for home and Hollywood.

Hollywood in shorts: Humphrey Bogart almost had Cathy O'Donnell borrowed from Sam Goldwyn for "Knock On Any Door." But when she signed with Selznick her loan-out salary doubled—chilling the deal.

Parting between Peggy Cummins and 20th is so friendly Peggy agreed to a week of exploitation on "Escape" before she leaves New York for England.

Helen Ferguson was so brilliantly illuminated at the Gene Raymonds party wearing the 63-carat amethyst pin Bob Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck gave her, she was accused of being watever the folks saw flying over Alabama!

Trade paper reviews on Barbara Stanwyck's breathless terrorizing in "Sorry, Wrong Number" are just what we've been think all along. What an actress! For that matter—what a girl!

Pat O'Brien's mother is ill in St. John's Hospital. She has been deeply grieved and upset since the death of her sister, very close to her.

Night club business may be slow in New York, but not around the Copacabana where Frances Langford is being held over for an additional two weeks.

Tex Beneke, the band man, recuperating from an emergency appendectomy in Detroit.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Religion and Commerce

The most astonishing single thing about the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's astonishing program, "The Greatest Story Ever Told," a dramatization of the teachings of Christ, which is presented without commercials, is the fact that it sells tires. This wasn't the original aim. Goodyear's chairman of the board, Paul W. Litchfield, who is primarily responsible for getting it on the air, was looking for a public relations program, not a commercial program in the ordinary sense.

John Crosby

"As a corporation grows," said Mr. Litchfield, "its primary responsibilities to employees, cutomers and stockholders are augmented by increasing obligations of a public or social nature. It should continue to grow only as long as it accepts and recognizes these obligations and responsibilities." A certain amount of self-interest is evident in this high-minded statement. Big business leaders would be deaf, dumb and blind if they didn't recognize a drastic change in attitude toward big business in the last thirty years and the need for counteracting. Consequently there have been public relations programs before, notably Henry Ford's symphony hour (no longer on the air) and the United States Steel Corporation's Theater Guild on the Air. Neither of these programs—or others of the same type—was designed to sell products but they were designed to sell big business. Buried in all such programs was an explanation, apologia or defense—you can select any word you choose, depending on your feelings on the subject—of big business in America.

"The Greatest Story Ever Told" sticks to the teachings of Christ and refrains entirely from injecting any latter-day sermons from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. Mr. Litchfield had some trouble selling this idea to his business associates who couldn't quite justify in their own minds the expenditure of $750,000 a year on a program that brought Goodyear no apparent return. Originally, it was planned to present the program without any credit line to the company. However, the Federal Communications Commission wisely insists that all sponsors be identified. Consequently the listener hears at the beginning and end of each program: "The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company presents . . ." —and that's all.

By the hammer-and-screech standards of radio this is no commercial at all. It is axiomatic in this business that a brand name be repeated at least a dozen times in three minutes and even then it is considered wise to pound the name home with the assistance of bells, railroad whistles, galloping hooves or a bevy of girl singers in full cry. Nevertheless, even in competition with hard-selling commercials, sponsor identification of "The Greatest Story Ever Told" has been awfully high. People apparently listen to religious programs more attentively than they do any other kind, and in the stillness of religious feeling aroused by this program, the name Goodyear rings forth like a thunderclap—an advertising bonanza which is not only unintentional but a little embarrassing.

Recently the Kudner Agency, which has charge of the show, did a little research to find out what effect, if any, the program had on tire sales. Eight hundred and fifty-three car owners in four cities were asked if they knew of any program sponsored by a tire company. One hundred fifteen mentioned "The Greatest Story" and fifty-four of these said they'd be influenced by the program to buy Goodyear tires. On the other hand only ninety-three mentioned another tire program which has been on the air twenty years as opposed to a year and a half for "The Greatest Story," and only twenty-one said the second program would influence their choice of tires.

This gratifying good will has brought with it some delicate problems. "The Greatest Story" is not just a radio program; it is almost a public trust. Having embraced the responsibility, Goodyear will have great difficulty ever relinquishing it. The outcry if the program were dropped would be tremendous.

Listeners to "The Greatest Story" are in a class apart in their devotion to it and Goodyear doesn't dare make any changes without consulting them. Last year Kudner and the American Broadcasting Company, which carries the program, surveyed 1,400 listeners to ascertain their feelings on moving "The Greatest Story" from its regular time, 6:30 p. m. E.D.T. Sundays, to another evening when it might find more listeners. The listeners voted overwhelmingly (82 per cent) against broadcasting the program any other day except Sunday and many of them wrote that they planned their day so as to be able to hear it.

THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Bernard F. Carter, who departed this life one year ago, July 28, 1947.

One year ago today, he left us,
In our hearts we'll always miss him,
But some day we'll meet again.

Now in death his voice is still,
Dear Lord help us in our sorrow,
To obey your Holy will.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our Father, George H. Sweitzer. We also want to thank the Minister, those who sent flowers and gifts, the pallbearers and those who loaned cars fo the funeral.

THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Bernard F. Carter, who departed this life one year ago, July 28, 1947.

One year ago today, he left us,
How hard the bitter shock and pain,
In our hearts we'll always miss him,
But some day we'll meet again.

Always happy, always singing,
Now in death his voice is still.
Dear Lord help us in our sorrow,
To obey your Holy will.

Shadows fall, dark seems the way,
Time goes on, but memories stay.

Stock Market Runs Into Trouble After Attempting Early Advance

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—The stock market ran into trouble late today after trying to get ahead in earlier trading.

Downward tendencies that developed in the final hour were credited more to investment and speculative apathy than any aggressive selling. Price changes either way were mostly around a point or less.

Railroad and oil shares did better than most other sections a good part of the day, with both groups aided by earnings reports which showed unusually good results. Support in these sections, too, faded away.

United States Steel Corporation's June quarter report was viewed as excellent by some of the experts. The stock cruised along in fractionally higher territory most of the day then slipped in the last few minutes of business. The final price was 79¼, off 1¼.

Others lower included Youngstown Sheet 81⅝, Chrysler 61¾, Montgomery Ward 56, International Harvester 30½, American Safety Razor 8⅝, Consolidated Natural Gas 44, Westinghouse Electric 28⅞, Radio Corporation 12⅝, Southern Pacific 57, Union Pacific 89¼, Illinois Central 38⅝, Richfield Oil 41⅝ and Standard Oil (NJ) 81⅛.

Wright Aeronautical, closing at 96, added another four points to Tuesday's 14-point jump. The advance was sparked by news of two $5 dividends.

Also higher were Goodyear Tire, Consolidated Vultee, Western Union, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, United States Gypsum, Sinclair Oil, Pacific Western Oil, Pure Oil and Ronson Art Metal Works.

Lower in the curb were Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, and Sherwin-Williams. Illinois Zinc, Derby Oil, and McCord Corporation gained a point or more. Volume of 210,000 shares compared with 220,000 yesterday.

United States government bonds were lower in over-the-counter dealing and one long-term issue—the bank eligible 2½s of September 1967-72—declined 7-32 of a point to 101 16-32.

The volume was $2,410,000, well under yesterday's $3,640,000 and almost down to the 1948 low of $2,385,000 on March 17.

Stock Market Runs Into Trouble After Attempting Early Advance

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—The stock market ran into trouble late today after trying to get ahead in earlier trading.

Downward tendencies that developed in the final hour were credited more to investment and speculative apathy than any aggressive selling. Price changes either way were mostly around a point or less.

Railroad and oil shares did better than most other sections a good part of the day, with both groups aided by earnings reports which showed unusually good results. Support in these sections, too, faded away.

United States Steel Corporation's June quarter report was viewed as excellent by some of the experts. The stock cruised along in fractionally higher territory most of the day then slipped in the last few minutes of business. The final price was 79¼, off 1¼.

Others lower included Youngstown Sheet 81⅝, Chrysler 61¾, Montgomery Ward 56, International Harvester 30½, American Safety Razor 8⅝, Consolidated Natural Gas 44, Westinghouse Electric 28⅞, Radio Corporation 12⅝, Southern Pacific 57, Union Pacific 89¼, Illinois Central 38⅜, Richfield Oil 41⅜ and Standard Oil (NJ) 81⅛.

Wright Aeronautical, closing at 96, added another four points to Tuesday's 14-point jump. The advance was sparked by news of two $5 dividends.

Also higher were Goodyear Tire, Consolidated Vultee, Western Union, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, United States Gypsum, Sinclair Oil, Pacific Western Oil, Pure Oil and Ronson Art Metal Works.

Lower in the curb were Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, and Sherwin-Williams. Illinois Zinc, Derby Oil, and McCord Corporation gained a point or more. Volume of 210,000 shares compared with 220,000 yesterday.

Prices turned irregular in the slowest bond market since March 17.

United States government bonds were lower in over-the-counter dealing and one long-term issue—the bank eligible 2½s of September 1967-72—declined 7-32 of a point to 101 16-32.

Celanese Talks To Resume When Break Appears

Union Demand Is Dropped 1-2 Cent

Following a fruitless contract negotiating session yesterday afternoon, James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, reported he would call the next meeting between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America when there are indications of a willingness of either side to recede from their present positions.

He said there was no significant progress to report from the two and one-half hour session held yesterday after a break of more than a week.

When questioned as to what he would do in case neither side receded from its present positions in a reasonable time, Holden said it was possible that negotiations being held elsewhere in the rayon industry might provide the basis for the resumption of contract negotiations at the Amcelle plant.

At yesterday's session the union dropped one-half cent from its wage demand to 18 cents. At the session held last week, the union reduced its original 25 cents an hour request to 18½ cents. The company has made no counter offer to either of the union proposals, informed sources said.

James A. Dundon, TWUA official who is leading the union discussions, confirmed the reduction of the union request to 18 cents and said the company rejected that figure but did not make an offer.

Another union official said the TWUA has receded twice from its original demand here and said, "It's their move next."

The company had no comment on the session except to confirm Holden's report.

The check-off card was also discussed yesterday without an agreement being reached since the company counter proposal on that point, it was reported, was not acceptable to the union.

Cresaptown Area Residents Urged To Boil Water

Residents of Cresaptown, Garden City and vicinity are urged to boil water supplied them by the Cumberland Suburban Water Company, Inc., a spokesman for the utility said last night.

The water company has about 300 family-users in the Cresaptown area and water from an emergency supply is now flowing through the system. Company officials explained a shortage of water in the company's dam and reservoir has made it necessary to obtain water from an emergency supply.

No cause of the failure of the normal supply has been immediately determined and work is underway in an effort to remedy the situation, officials said.

The water being supplied is very heavily chlorinated and company officials said they have permission of the State Health Department to use the supply now tapped.

As an added recaution, company spokesmen suggest that residents boil the water used for drinking and cooking until the emergency is ended.

Dale Bittner Wins Craftsmanship Award

Dale S. Bittner, RFD No. 1, has been declared runner-up in the junior division of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition, according to announcement of Ford Frick, president of the National Baseball League, in New York, where judging has been in progress for several weeks.

James C. Conner, Bethesda, won the top award in the junior division for Maryland. Wesley K. Andrews, Hurlock, was awarded third place.

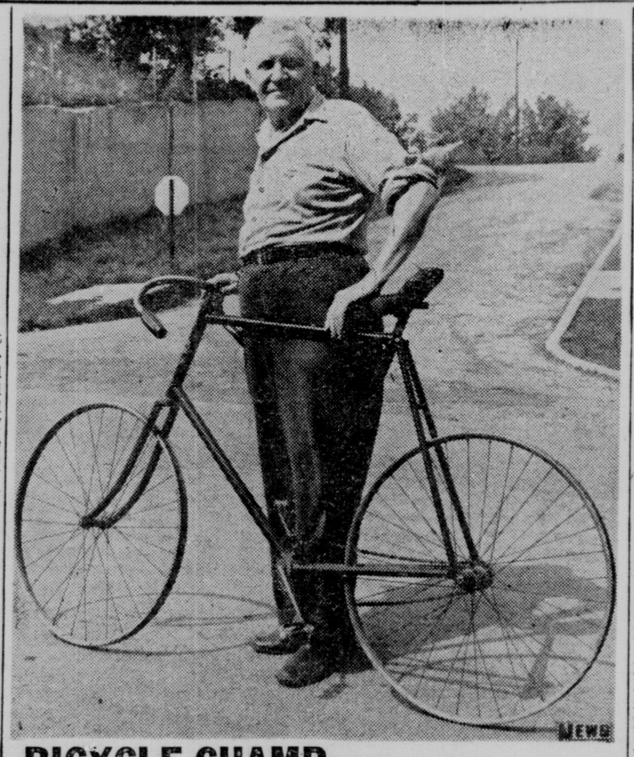

In the senior division Richard Cooper, Hagerstown, took top honors, with Larry C. Messick, RFD No. 3, Rockville, second and James G. Davis, Rockville, third.

Honorable mention awards were given to John F. Goedeke, Baltimore; William D. Eschmann, Towson; Don Saum, Hagerstown; Richard Alexander, Accident; Bill Wright, Hagerstown; and Kenneth Jensen, also Hagerstown.

With 14 awards in each state, more than $14,000 in cash is being distributed in the eastern area in addition to 18 expense-free trips to the national Guild Convention in Detroit, Mich., August 24 through 27.

Directors Will Meet

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday at 4 p. m. to elect officers, H. W. Smith, manager said yesterday.

BICYCLE CHAMP-- John H. Goldsworthy, 25 Park Avenue, Frostburg, is shown above holding the bicycle with which he won the bicycle championship of Allegany County in 1896, defeating the late Hanson Willison of Cumberland in a mile race at Frostburg. Goldsworthy, who is wearing his solid gold championship medal, has been nominated for chief judge in the bicycle parade to be held next month in connection with the convention of Mountain District, American Legion, in Frostburg.

County Bike Champ In 1896 May Be Chief Judge For Bicycle Parade

John Goldsworthy Won Title At 22

John H. Goldsworthy, 74-year-old Frostburg resident who won the bicycle championship of Allegany County in 1896, has been nominated as chief judge in the bicycle parade to be held in Frostburg next month in connection with the convention of Mountain District, American Legion.

Goldsworthy, who was 22 when he received his solid gold championship medal, won the crown by defeating the late Hanson Willison of Cumberland in a mile race at Frostburg.

A little over a half century ago when present style bicycles replaced the high wheelers, Goldsworthy, then a messenger boy in Frostburg for the Western Union Telegraph Company, became prominent as a speed rider and the best racer in the old Frostburg Bicycle Club, which had headquarters on Frost Avenue on the grounds of Frost mansion, now occupied by Mrs. Arthur Hitchins.

Won "Novice Race"

His first local prominence was achieved when he won a "novice race" with 12 riders competing. This affair, held in the spring of 1896 at the Frostburg race track of the Frostburg Trotting Association, was a popular event because of the presence among the competitors of Jimmie Morton, a resident of Dan's Mountain.

Morton, now the owner of Morton's Garage, Frostburg, was backed by the Lonaconing and Lower Georges Creek sportsmen, but the best he could do was win second place.

After Morton's defeat, the Lonaconing sportsmen presented the name of Gilbert Porter as a contender for the county championship. This race was run July 4, 1896, on the Frostburg Race Track, with Goldsworthy the winner.

Following this race, Goldsworthy's claim to the title of Allegany County champion was challenged by Cumberland supporters of the late Mr. Willison, who at that time, according to Goldsworthy, was a member of a Cumberland fire department.

The race between Goldsworthy, representing Frostburg and the Georges Creek region, and Willison, representing the Cumberland area, was run August 27, 1896, on the Frostburg Race Track and was won by Goldsworthy, whose time was two minutes and 22 seconds for the mile run.

Following the race, Goldsworthy was presented with a solid gold medal by the citizens of Frostburg. The presentation was made at a public reception held in the old Slicer Hotel on the site of the Frostburg Furniture Building.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Arion Band and much credit for Goldsworthy's success was given by the speakers to Charles L. Gross, now a resident at 800 Washington Street, Cumberland, who was Goldsworthy's starter in all his races.

Is School Custodian

At the time he was in the racing business, Goldsworthy was a clerk in the Borden Mining Company here. Being a trained telegrapher, he accepted a position as night operator at the C. and P. Depot in Frostburg and later went to Klondyke, the largest coal producing mine in this region.

Goldsworthy is the husband of the former Miss Linnie Orr, Lona-

Sitter Urges "Tough" Policy With Soviets

Prepares Platform For Boys' Forum

A "get tough" policy with Russia, outlawing the Communist party and establishment of a United States Diplomatic Academy are included in the platform of 17-year-old Charles Sitter, this city, in his campaign for president of Boys' Forum.

The forum, sponsored by the American Legion, will be held at American University in Washington, D. C., starting tomorrow and concluding August 5.

Methods Outlined

In his foreign policy plank, Sitter recommends the following methods of "getting tough" with Russia:

Break the blockade of Berlin by blockading all Russian commerce through the Panama and Suez Canals; form a bloc of western powers against Russia; send an ultimatum to Russia signed by the remaining United Nations members; stop all trade with Russia and cease shipments of CARE packages to all Russian satellite nations.

Another plank urges the formation of an academy similar to West Point and the Naval Academy, to train young men for diplomatic service as consuls or ambassadors.

Under the heading of "Un-American Activities," Sitter calls for the outlawing of the Communist party in the United States "because it is not a political party but a subversive organization dedicated to the purpose of overthrowing the democratic form of government."

Atomic Power—Retain the secret of the atom explosive until such time as the United Nations organization is strong enough to check any misuse of the atom.

Special emphasis on flood control, with funds to be handled in a similar manner. Reclamation of waste lands, especially in the middle west, with extensive irrigation. Establishment and maintenance of additional national parks.

Police Seize Six Slot Machines At Keyser Moose Lodge Clubrooms

KEYSER, W. Va.—Six machines, described by police authorities as gambling devices, were seized in a raid on the club rooms of Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, corner of Main and Armstrong Streets here last night.

A 50-cent slot machine and five slot machines of the nickle variety were found, police said, in the second floor club rooms of the order. Ed Burns, steward of the club, posted bond of $200 for his appearance at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Tuesday at 11 a. m., on a charge of maintaining gaming devices.

The raid was conducted by West Virginia State Trooper Frank Bowley and Mineral County Sheriff James A. Dixon at 9:40 p. m. Officers said three of the machines were "being played" when they entered the lodge quarters. The large machine, described as "big and pretty as a juke box" was in an adjoining room but was not in operation.

Cpl. R. R. Karrickhoff assisted the Sheriff and Trooper Bowley in moving the machines from the second story club room.

Authorities did not indicate whether or not they had a complaint about the alleged machines and made no comment as to whether this raid might have been the beginning of a similar raid on other clubs in the county.

Well Over Mile Of Pipe Laid In Water Line

Operation Nearing Nave's Crossroads

Well over one mile of pipe has been laid in the new auxiliary water line connecting Lake Gordon with the city, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards announced yesterday.

Laying of the pipe began early last month at a point on Davidson Street, under supervision of the Cumberland Contracting Company, which was awarded the $744,838 contract.

Edwards said that as of yesterday, 6,100 feet of the pipe, which is 36 inches in diameter, had been laid, reaching to a point about a quarter of a mile short of Nave's Crossroads, paralleling Bedford Road.

A 12-man crew is working nine hours a day, six days a week, to lay the pipe, and Edwards estimated that the work will be completed in seven months or less, barring unforeseen difficulties or bad weather conditions.

An employe of the Lock Joint Pipe Company, East Orange, N. J., which is manufacturing the 16-foot lengths of pipe at a temporary plant in Ridgeley, is working with the crew to supervise the connection of each length.

Work has been accelerated since passing a point where a deep rock formation was encountered, and 15 to 25 lengths are being laid each day, Edwards said.

After its manufacture in Ridgeley, the pipe is hauled by truck to the scene of operations, with each truck carrying two lengths of pipe. Each length weighs about four tons.

About 42,000 feet of pipe will be required for the new line.

Holden Will Aid In Baking Firm Contract Dispute

Meeting Planned Tonight At YMCA

Officials of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union of America, AFL, and four Cumberland area baking companies will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Central YMCA in an attempt to break a contract stalemate which developed here about a month ago.

Charles W. Robinette, union president, said James A. Holden, federal conciliator, will attend the meeting.

The union's contract with the Community, Schmidt and Ort Baking Companies here and the McIntyre Bakery, Westernport, expired May 1, but is a continuing contract and is effective during the course of negotiations.

Robinette said the union first asked a 25 cent wage increase and still has not dropped that figure since the firms have made no counter offers.

King Places First In Print Contest

John R. King won first place in the Cumberland Camera Club's monthly black and white print, "Mother and Son."

W. P. Price acted as judge of the contest, which featured the July meeting of the club at Knights of Malta Hall.

Other winners were "Sue Ann," second place, by J. B. Smith, and "Father," by G. W. Triplett, third place. Triplett also took fourth and fifth place with "They're Off" and "My Pet."

An exhibition of pictures by Edward L. Bafford, noted Baltimore photographer who served as judge of the club's annual contest this year, will be put on display at Harvey's store for the ensuing week.

Entries are being received in the amateur snapshot contest, according to Samuel H. Dooley, president. The contest, which ends September 15, is open to all amateur photographers within a 25-mile radius of Cumberland.

Rules may be obtained from photofinishers and dealers, and entries should be submitted to John R. King, contest chairman, 692 Gephart Drive.

Texas Car Crashes On Bedford Road

Maryland State Police were still checking late last night an accident which occurred on Bedford Road, about one-half mile north of Naves Crossroads about 9:45 p. m.

Trooper William McElfish said the car left the road and crashed and that persons at the scene reported the driver had been taken to a local hospital. No trace of the man was found at either hospital. The damaged car bore Texas tag No. HK-5459, state police said. Late last night police reported they had learned the car was stolen in Cumberland.

Mantheiy Will Resign As Head Of Zone Board

Joseph R. Mantheiy, who has served as chairman of the Board of Zoning Appeals since December 22, 1947, announced last night that he will submit his resignation to the Mayor and Council, effective immediately.

Mantheiy, who resides at 1306 East Oldtown Road with his wife and five children, plans to leave next week with his family to reside in either southern Texas or New Mexico.

His oldest child, Joseph R. Mantheiy, Jr., 13, is a victim of chronic asthma, and physicians have recommended a change of climate. The Mantheiys have another son and three daughters.

When he assumed the chairmanship of the board Mantheiy succeeded William M. Weatherholt. He became a member of the three-man group in August, 1945, succeeding George H. Tederick.

Charles Paul Roeder, secretary automatically succeeds Mantheiy as chairman. The third member, R. J. Shepherd, will become secretary. The vacancy on the board will be filled by an appointment of the Mayor and Council.

At a hearing last night in City Hall, the board granted the appeal of Harry McFarland, 823 Elmwood Lane, for a permit to locate a one-story brick residence on Lot 3, Holland Street, in the Allegany County Farms Addition.

The permit was originally denied by Building Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because of insufficient allowance for side yard space. However, the board granted the appeal under a special section of the zoning ordinance which allows for necessary exceptions in front, side or rear yard requirements because of topography.

Accident Victim Reported Improved

Kathleen Mullaney, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullaney, 208 Washington Street, is slightly improved, according to word received from Baltimore yesterday.

The little girl, who was hit by a car near the Celanese pool several weeks ago, was taken to Harriett Lane Hospital, Baltimore, a little over a week ago.

Police To Probe Forced Entry Of Three Buildings

Garage, 2 Service Stations Entered

City police reported yesterday that nothing of value was taken by the intruder or intruders who broke into a garage and two service stations here overnight.

James Merle Raupach, 316 Bow Street, reported the Raupach Garage had been entered by an intruder who entered the rear of the building by breaking a window with the metal cap from an oxygen tank.

He told Lt. E. R. Lilya that the entire garage was ransacked and that all desk drawers were pulled out. Nothing of value was taken, he said.

A piece of pipe was used by the intruder who broke into the service station of William Harris at 739 North Mechanic Street, between midnight and 8 a. m. The intruder broke a small window on the north side of the station to get into the rest room but was unable to force his way into the office from there, Lt. Lilya said. The door to the oil shed was also forced but nothing of value was taken.

The intruder who entered the service station of Duke Iles, 850 North Mechanic Street, after breaking a window on the west side of the building with a rock, also found himself in the rest room. Police said the intruder was unable to enter the office and left without getting anything of value.

Police said the methods used to enter each of the building were quite similar.

Two Men Injured In Fall From Scaffold

The men, both employes of Clyde Slider, local contractor, were identified as Howard Appel, 38, and Bernard J. Keegan, 27, 416 Franklin Street. Appel suffered abrasions about the right arm while Keegan suffered a laceration of the left arm and fingers of his right hand. They were treated at Allegany Hospital.

Also treated at the same hospital was Albert Martin, 61, Fort Ashby, W. Va., who cut the third finger of his left hand on a saw.

An 18-year-old local youth, Edward Kearchner, 615 Princeton Street, was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday morning after he cut his left hand while using a sickle.

Attaches reported that George Nixon, 11-year-old son of Harvey Nixon, Oldtown, was in "good condition" at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted yesterday afternoon after falling from a horse and landing on a water jug. He suffered a laceration of the left thigh.

Paul Warden, 9-year-old son of Ralph Warden, 121 West Oldtown Road, was treated in the same hospital after he caught his right hand in the wringer of a washing machine.

Keyser-McCoole Bridge Closed By Authorities

Repairs May Be Completed Today

The Keyser-McCoole bridge on Route 220 was closed early last night after Keyser city policemen detected signs of weakness in the steel and wood span across the Potomac River there.

Keyser Police Chief Claude A. Martin and Officer Raymond Dawson said the action was taken at 8:45 p. m. after they noticed the floor of the structure sagging from the weight of several heavily laden trucks.

Cleo Swecker, head of the West Virginia State Road Commission maintenance department at Keyser, summoned to the bridge, closed the structure to traffic at once and routed traffic over the highway by way of Piedmont, W. Va.

Damage Seems Minor

Swecker said the job of repair did not seem to be too big unless damage was more than could be seen from his first examination.

The bridge was closed for several weeks in February after several trestles were damaged by surging flood waters.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission, said last night he had been notified of the closing of the bridge, and communicated immediately with West Virginia highway authorities.

Chaires explained he had also talked with State Trooper William Baker, the last man to cross the bridge before it was closed at 8:45 p. m. A section of the bridge, about 18 feet in length, has settled a couple of inches, the trooper reported.

Repair Begins Today

Chaires expressed the opinion a stringer underneath may have dropped loose or some other minor damage may have developed which can be remedied without too much difficulty. He stated a crew will begin work this morning on necessary repairs, and it is hoped to have traffic moving across the span again today.

The Keyser-McCoole bridge, damaged several times by flood and high waters, is one of the major construction projects being planned in this area. Chaires said last night plans have already been approved by Maryland and West Virginia authorities, officials of the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland railroads and the Federal government, all of whom are to share in the costs of a new and modern span to be built near the site of the present bridge.

Chaires said it is possible that bids may be asked for this summer.

Barred Racers Will Be Reported

Trainers of race horses competing on Maryland tracks will be required in the future to notify the racing secretary of any horses in their charge whose names appear on any barred list, including lists of veterinarians, starters, stewards or others at any tracks outside the state, according to Joseph F. Flanagan, steward for the Maryland Racing Commission.

The action came following the fatal injury of Jockey Benny Leggett at the Fairgo track last Saturday, when he was thrown by Alpine Boy, a 12-year-old gelding barred at Charles Town, W. Va., earlier this season.

Dr. Frank U. Davis, local eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, who made an independent examination of Alpine Boy with the sanction of the Maryland Racing Commission yesterday morning, said the horse is blind in one eye and has a cataract over the other.

17-Year-Old Youth Hurt By Hit-Run Car

Donald Schade, 17, a gas station attendant employed at Leasure's Service Station, Union and George Street, is a patient at Memorial Hospital as the result of a hit and run accident.

City Police here said they had no record of the case, but according to the boy's employer, William Leasure, the young man was struck by a car on North Centre Street about 8 p. m., Tuesday. Leasure said the boy was riding a motorbike when a car pulled out from a curb and sideswiped him, severely cutting through the index finger of one hand.

Schade, who lives at 635 Lincoln Street, said the car did not stop and he did not obtain the license number. The hospital reported him resting comfortably last night.

Holden Checks Progress On Macaroni Pact

Local 1132, United Macaroni Workers, CIO, representing some 35 workers, threatened a strike if a satisfactory agreement were not reached by August 7. The union has asked a 30 cent increase.

Holden has conferred informally with both sides but has not yet called a joint meeting.

Paper Worker Is Hurt

KEYSER—Harry Jones, 45, Piedmont, an employe of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, yesterday at 9:30 p. m., for treatment of a back injury. He said he was injured in a fall at work.

The Weather

A maximum of 91 made Wednesday the hottest day of the week so far, just below the month's high of 93. A hint of rain didn't materialize although the temperature late last night dropped to 72. Today should be a little cooler, but fair, according to the prophets.

Celanese Talks To Resume When Break Appears

Union Demand Is Dropped 1-2 Cent

Following a fruitless contract negotiating session yesterday afternoon, James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, reported he would call the next meeting between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America when there are indications of a willingness of either side to recede from their present positions.

He said there was no significant progress to report from the two and one-half hour session held yesterday after a break of more than a week.

When questioned as to what he would do in case neither side receded from its present positions in a reasonable time, Holden said it was possible that negotiations being held elsewhere in the rayon industry might provide the basis for the resumption of contract negotiations at the Amcelle plant.

At yesterday's session the union dropped one-half cent from its wage demand to 18 cents. At the session held last week, the union reduced its original 25 cents an hour request to 18½ cents. The company has made no counter offer to either of the union proposals, informed sources said.

James A. Dundon, TWUA official who is leading the union discussions, confirmed the reduction of the union request to 18 cents and said the company rejected that figure but did not make an offer.

Another union official said the TWUA has receded twice from its original demand here and said, "It's their move next."

The company had no comment on the session except to confirm Holden's report.

The check-off card was also discussed yesterday without an agreement being reached since the company counter proposal on that point, it was reported, was not acceptable to the union.

Cresaptown Area Residents Urged To Boil Water

Residents of Cresaptown, Garden City and vicinity are urged to boil water supplied them by the Cumberland Suburban Water Company, Inc., a spokesman for the utility said last night.

The water company has about 300 family-users in the Cresaptown area and water from an emergency supply is now flowing through the system. Company officials explained a shortage of water in the company's dam and reservoir has made it necessary to obtain water from an emergency supply.

No cause of the failure of the normal supply has been immediately determined and work is underway in an effort to remedy the situation, officials said.

The water being supplied is very heavily chlorinated and company officials said they have permission of the State Health Department to use the supply now tapped.

As an added recaution, company spokesmen suggest that residents boil the water used for drinking and cooking until the emergency is ended.

Dale Bittner Wins Craftsmanship Award

In the senior division Richard Cooper, Hagerstown, took top honors, with Larry C. Messick, RFD No. 3, Rockville, second and James G. Davis, Rockville, third.

With 14 awards in each state, more than $14,000 in cash is being distributed in the eastern area in addition to 18 expense-free trips to the national Guild Convention in Detroit, Mich., August 24 through 27.

Directors Will Meet

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday at 4 p. m. to elect officers, H. W. Smith, manager said yesterday.

BICYCLE CHAMP-- John H. Goldsworthy, 25 Park Avenue, Frostburg, is shown above holding the bicycle with which he won the bicycle championship of Allegany County in 1896, defeating the late Hanson Willison of Cumberland in a mile race at Frostburg. Goldsworthy, who is wearing his solid gold championship medal, has been nominated for chief judge in the bicycle parade to be held next month in connection with the convention of Mountain District, American Legion, in Frostburg.

County Bike Champ In 1896 May Be Chief Judge For Bicycle Parade

John Goldsworthy Won Title At 22

John H. Goldsworthy, 74-year-old Frostburg resident who won the bicycle championship of Allegany County in 1896, has been nominated as chief judge in the bicycle parade to be held in Frostburg next month in connection with the convention of Mountain District, American Legion.

Goldsworthy, who was 22 when he received his solid gold championship medal, won the crown by defeating the late Hanson Willison of Cumberland in a mile race at Frostburg.

A little over a half century ago when present style bicycles replaced the high wheelers, Goldsworthy, then a messenger boy in Frostburg for the Western Union Telegraph Company, became prominent as a speed rider and the best racer in the old Frostburg Bicycle Club, which had headquarters on Frost Avenue on the grounds of Frost mansion, now occupied by Mrs. Arthur Hitchins.

Won "Novice Race"

His first local prominence was achieved when he won a "novice race" with 12 riders competing. This affair, held in the spring of 1896 at the Frostburg race track of the Frostburg Trotting Association, was a popular event because of the presence among the competitors of Jimmie Morton, a resident of Dan's Mountain.

Morton, now the owner of Morton's Garage, Frostburg, was backed by the Lonaconing and Lower Georges Creek sportsmen, but the best he could do was win second place.

After Morton's defeat, the Lonaconing sportsmen presented the name of Gilbert Porter as a contender for the county championship. This race was run July 4, 1896, on the Frostburg Race Track, with Goldsworthy the winner.

Following this race, Goldsworthy's claim to the title of Allegany County champion was challenged by Cumberland supporters of the late Mr. Willison, who at that time, according to Goldsworthy, was a member of a Cumberland fire department.

The race between Goldsworthy, representing Frostburg and the Georges Creek region, and Willison, representing the Cumberland area, was run August 27, 1896, on the Frostburg Race Track and was won by Goldsworthy, whose time was two minutes and 22 seconds for the mile run.

Following the race, Goldsworthy was presented with a solid gold medal by the citizens of Frostburg. The presentation was made at a public reception held in the old Slicer Hotel on the site of the Frostburg Furniture Building.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Arion Band and much credit for Goldsworthy's success was given by the speakers to Charles L. Gross, now a resident at 800 Washington Street, Cumberland, who was Goldsworthy's starter in all his races.

Is School Custodian

At the time he was in the racing business, Goldsworthy was a clerk in the Borden Mining Company here. Being a trained telegrapher, he accepted a position as night operator at the C. and P. Depot in Frostburg and later went to Klondyke, the largest coal producing mine in this region.

At the present time he is one of the custodians at Beall High School and is known to nearly every pupil of the school as "Goldie."

Prepares Platform For Boys' Forum

A "get tough" policy with Russia, outlawing the Communist party and establishment of a United States Diplomatic Academy are included in the platform of 17-year-old Charles Sitter, this city, in his campaign for president of Boys' Forum.

The forum, sponsored by the American Legion, will be held at American University in Washington, D. C., starting tomorrow and concluding August 5.

Methods Outlined

In his foreign policy plank, Sitter recommends the following methods of "getting tough" with Russia:

Break the blockade of Berlin by blockading all Russian commerce through the Panama and Suez Canals; form a bloc of western powers against Russia; send an ultimatum to Russia signed by the remaining United Nations members; stop all trade with Russia and cease shipments of CARE packages to all Russian satellite nations.

Another plank urges the formation of an academy similar to West Point and the Naval Academy, to train young men for diplomatic service as consuls or ambassadors.

Under the heading of "Un-American Activities," Sitter calls for the outlawing of the Communist party in the United States "because it is not a political party but a subversive organization dedicated to the purpose of overthrowing the democratic form of government."

Veto Problem Cited

Universal Military Training—Support UMT, maintenance of the draft and also increased production of military machinery, keeping weapons up to date.

Housing—Federal appropriations for housing and a bureau to supervise distribution of the funds. Require inspection of all projects, which must meet with the requirements of the bureau. Place ceilings on rents and regulate rates of rent.

Taxation—Maintain present standards of income and property tax to reduce the national debt. Maintain a reasonably high tariff for three years in order to lower the cost of living in the United States.

Education—Federal aid program for education. Raise salaries of teachers, improve schools, conduct monthly inspections of each school and file reports on necessary changes.

Conservation—National reforestation funds to be distributed by a federal agency and not by the states, with the object of reducing "leakage" of federal funds through handling by various bureaus. Special emphasis on flood control, with funds to be handled in a similar manner. Reclamation of waste lands, especially in the middle west, with extensive irrigation. Establishment and maintenance of additional national parks.

Veterans Administration—Strengthen VA boards "by giving them the real power to act, which they possess only theoretically." Advancement of on-the-job training on a state basis as well as national.

Well Over Mile Of Pipe Laid In Water Line

Operation Nearing Nave's Crossroads

Well over one mile of pipe has been laid in the new auxiliary water line connecting Lake Gordon with the city, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards announced yesterday.

Laying of the pipe began early last month at a point on Davidson Street, under supervision of the Cumberland Contracting Company, which was awarded the $744,838 contract.

Edwards said that as of yesterday, 6,100 feet of the pipe, which is 36 inches in diameter, had been laid, reaching to a point about a quarter of a mile short of Nave's Crossroads, paralleling Bedford Road.

A 12-man crew is working nine hours a day, six days a week, to lay the pipe, and Edwards estimated that the work will be completed in seven months or less, barring unforeseen difficulties or bad weather conditions.

An employe of the Lock Joint Pipe Company, East Orange, N. J., which is manufacturing the 16-foot lengths of pipe at a temporary plant in Ridgeley, is working with the crew to supervise the connection of each length.

Work has been accelerated since passing a point where a deep rock formation was encountered, and 15 to 25 lengths are being laid each day, Edwards said.

After its manufacture in Ridgeley, the pipe is hauled by truck to the scene of operations, with each truck carrying two lengths of pipe. Each length weighs about four tons.

Edwards said the Lock Joint firm expects to complete the making of pipe some time during August.

About 42,000 feet of pipe will be required for the new line.

Holden Will Aid In Baking Firm Contract Dispute

Meeting Planned Tonight At YMCA

Officials of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union of America, AFL, and four Cumberland area baking companies will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Central YMCA in an attempt to break a contract stalemate which developed here about a month ago.

Charles W. Robinette, union president, said James A. Holden, federal conciliator, will attend the meeting.

Wesley Reedy, Philadelphia, vice president of the Bakery Workers International, will head the union delegation.

The union's contract with the Community, Schmidt and Ort Baking Companies here and the McIntyre Bakery, Westernport, expired May 1, but is a continuing contract and is effective during the course of negotiations.

Robinette said the union first asked a 25 cent wage increase and still has not dropped that figure since the firms have made no counter offers.

Mantheiy Will Resign As Head Of Zone Board

Joseph R. Mantheiy, who has served as chairman of the Board of Zoning Appeals since December 22, 1947, announced last night that he will submit his resignation to the Mayor and Council, effective immediately.

Mantheiy, who resides at 1306 East Oldtown Road with his wife and five children, plans to leave next week with his family to reside in either southern Texas or New Mexico.

His oldest child, Joseph R. Mantheiy, Jr., 13, is a victim of chronic asthma, and physicians have recommended a change of climate. The Mantheiys have another son and three daughters.

When he assumed the chairmanship of the board Mantheiy succeeded William M. Weatherholt. He became a member of the three-man group in August, 1945, succeeding George H. Tederick.

Charles Paul Roeder, secretary automatically succeeds Mantheiy as chairman. The third member, R. J. Shepherd, will become secretary. The vacancy on the board will be filled by an appointment of the Mayor and Council.

At a hearing last night in City Hall, the board granted the appeal of Harry McFarland, 823 Elmwood Lane, for a permit to locate a one-story brick residence on Lot 3, Holland Street, in the Allegany County Farms Addition.

The permit was originally denied by Building Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because of insufficient allowance for side yard space. However, the board granted the appeal under a special section of the zoning ordinance which allows for necessary exceptions in front, side or rear yard requirements because of topography.

Garage, 2 Service Stations Entered

City police reported yesterday that nothing of value was taken by the intruder or intruders who broke into a garage and two service stations here overnight.

James Merle Raupach, 316 Bow Street, reported the Raupach Garage had been entered by an intruder who entered the rear of the building by breaking a window with the metal cap from an oxygen tank.

He told Lt. E. R. Lilya that the entire garage was ransacked and that all desk drawers were pulled out. Nothing of value was taken, he said.

A piece of pipe was used by the intruder who broke into the service station of William Harris at 739 North Mechanic Street, between midnight and 8 a. m. The intruder broke a small window on the north side of the station to get into the rest room but was unable to force his way into the office from there, Lt. Lilya said. The door to the oil shed was also forced but nothing of value was taken.

The intruder who entered the service station of Duke Iles, 850 North Mechanic Street, after breaking a window on the west side of the building with a rock, also found himself in the rest room. Police said the intruder was unable to enter the office and left without getting anything of value.

Police said the methods used to enter each of the building were quite similar.

Keyser-McCoole Bridge Closed By Authorities

Repairs May Be Completed Today

The Keyser-McCoole bridge on Route 220 was closed early last night after Keyser city policemen detected signs of weakness in the steel and wood span across the Potomac River there.

Keyser Police Chief Claude A. Martin and Officer Raymond Dawson said the action was taken at 8:45 p. m. after they noticed the floor of the structure sagging from the weight of several heavily laden trucks.

Cleo Swecker, head of the West Virginia State Road Commission maintenance department at Keyser, summoned to the bridge, closed the structure to traffic at once and routed traffic over the highway by way of Piedmont, W. Va.

Damage Seems Minor

Swecker said the job of repair did not seem to be too big unless damage was more than could be seen from his first examination.

The bridge was closed for several weeks in February after several trestles were damaged by surging flood waters.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission, said last night he had been notified of the closing of the bridge, and communicated immediately with West Virginia highway authorities.

Chaires explained he had also talked with State Trooper William Baker, the last man to cross the bridge before it was closed at 8:45 p. m. A section of the bridge, about 18 feet in length, has settled a couple of inches, the trooper reported.

Repair Begins Today

Chaires expressed the opinion a stringer underneath may have dropped loose or some other minor damage may have developed which can be remedied without too much difficulty. He stated a crew will begin work this morning on necessary repairs, and it is hoped to have traffic moving across the span again today.

The Keyser-McCoole bridge, damaged several times by flood and high waters, is one of the major construction projects being planned in this area. Chaires said last night plans have already been approved by Maryland and West Virginia authorities, officials of the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland railroads and the Federal government, all of whom are to share in the costs of a new and modern span to be built near the site of the present bridge.

Chaires said it is possible that bids may be asked for this summer.

Barred Racers Will Be Reported

Trainers of race horses competing on Maryland tracks will be required in the future to notify the racing secretary of any horses in their charge whose names appear on any barred list, including lists of veterinarians, starters, stewards or others at any tracks outside the state, according to Joseph F. Flanagan, steward for the Maryland Racing Commission.

The action came following the fatal injury of Jockey Benny Leggett at the Fairgo track last Saturday, when he was thrown by Alpine Boy, a 12-year-old gelding barred at Charles Town, W. Va., earlier this season.

Dr. Frank U. Davis, local eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, who made an independent examination of Alpine Boy with the sanction of the Maryland Racing Commission yesterday morning, said the horse is blind in one eye and has a cataract over the other.

17-Year-Old Youth Hurt By Hit-Run Car

Donald Schade, 17, a gas station attendant employed at Leasure's Service Station, Union and George Street, is a patient at Memorial Hospital as the result of a hit and run accident.

City Police here said they had no record of the case, but according to the boy's employer, William Leasure, the young man was struck by a car on North Centre Street about 8 p. m., Tuesday. Leasure said the boy was riding a motorbike when a car pulled out from a curb and sideswiped him, severely cutting through the index finger of one hand.

Schade, who lives at 635 Lincoln Street, said the car did not stop and he did not obtain the license number. The hospital reported him resting comfortably last night.

KEYSER—Harry Jones, 45, Piedmont, an employe of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, yesterday at 9:30 p. m., for treatment of a back injury. He said he was injured in a fall at work.

The Weather

A maximum of 91 made Wednesday the hottest day of the week so far, just below the month's high of 93. A hint of rain didn't materialize although the temperature late last night dropped to 72. Today should be a little cooler, but fair, according to the prophets.

Police Seize Six Slot Machines At Keyser Moose Lodge Clubrooms

KEYSER, W. Va.—Six machines, described by police authorities as gambling devices, were seized in a raid on the club rooms of Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, corner of Main and Armstrong Streets here last night.

A 50-cent slot machine and five slot machines of the nickle variety were found, police said, in the second floor club rooms of the order. Ed Burns, steward of the club, posted bond of $200 for his appearance at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Tuesday at 11 a. m., on a charge of maintaining gaming devices.

The raid was conducted by West Virginia State Trooper Frank Bowley and Mineral County Sheriff James A. Dixon at 9:40 p. m. Officers said three of the machines were "being played" when they entered the lodge quarters. The large machine, described as "big and pretty as a juke box" was in an adjoining room but was not in operation.

Cpl. R. R. Karrickhoff assisted the Sheriff and Trooper Bowley in moving the machines from the second story club room.

Authorities did not indicate whether or not they had a complaint about the alleged machines and made no comment as to whether this raid might have been the beginning of a similar raid on other clubs in the county.
